He Enjoyed Proclamation

Mayor Joseph Verducci of Daly City, long accustomed to cranking out all manner of official proclamations, was particularly tickled this week to issue another one — this time welcoming Bayshore City into Daly City.

His honor had been a leading proponent of the annexation move.

Verducci's proclamation declares:

WHEREAS annexation proceedings initiated by the voters of the Bayshore City area for annexation of this territory to Daly City have been successfully concluded; and—

WHEREAS it is fitting that the people of the Bayshore City territory be welcomed as a part of Daly City and accepted by the people of Daly City as co-citizens; and—

WHEREAS the effective date of this annexation is tomorrow—

NOW THEREFORE I, Joseph J. Verducci, Mayor of the City of Daly City by this proclamation hereby welcome the residents of the Bayshore City territory to Daly City.

I invite all residents to take a keen interest at Daly City government to the end that by cooperation and constructive effort [illegible] develop.

Bayshore Special Edition

The Post this week salutes the incorporation of Bayshore City into Daly City with a special series of stories and pictures on the bayside community.

An investigative team that included news editor Don Miller and reporter Ron Bates interviewed leading Bayshore citizens and toured the community to obtain a comprehensive picture of the newest addition to Daly City.

Most of these special stories and pictures are on Pages 8, 9 and 10. You'll also find other pictures on Pages 4 and 23.

And in this week's Pacific Parade column on Page 2, Miller reviews the early history of Bayshore and the area's short-lived venture into incorporation [illegible]

Order Halts Dissolution Of Fire Unit

(Earlier Stories, Page 10)

A temporary restraining order halting the dissolution proceedings of the Bayshore City Fire Protection district was issued Monday by Superior Court Judge Frank Blum.

The restraining order was requested by the city of Brisbane.

Bayshore is due to be absorbed into Daly City tomorrow.

The Bayshore Board of Fire Commissioners had been slated Monday night to officially canvass the votes of a special dissolution election held August 13. The restraining order prohibited the canvass.

The residents of Bayshore had voted to dissolve the district by a 251 to 12 vote.

Brisbane argued that it has no means of providing fire protection to a portion of their city which is included in the district.

The court case is expected to be heard by Blum Monday morning.

Brisbane held a special meeting Friday to pass a resolution placing part of the fire district under the Brisbane fire department.

The area is that portion of Bayshore that was annexed earlier this year.

The council authorized city attorney Conrad Reisch to initiate legal proceedings to obtain the fire district area.

Pacifica Council Race for '64 Off To An Early Start

By LOIS McNALLY

Pacifica's 1964 city council race has jumped off to an early start in the past week with at least two candidates formally announcing they will run and a raft of others indicating strong interest.

Recreation commissioner Grace McCarthy got the election derby off last week with her announcement.

The two candidacies prompted [illegible] to note that when the city was incorporated just four years ago there were 24 candidates for city council and it looks as though there will be almost as many in next April's race.

In fact, he said, a list of potential candidates for the council sounds like a Who's Who in Pacifica.

Fox's announcement that he'll run is expected to spur a similar announcement by Al Rosenberg, his business neighbor, observers say. Fox owns Linda Mar Hardware.

Rosenberg owns Linda Mar Paint center. He is a member of the planning commission and last year served as president of the Linda Mar Merchants association.

Very new on the city political scene but acting definitely like a comer is Rene Cardinal who narrowly lost out on a seat on the Laguna Salada school board last spring to Rod Clark.

Cardinal received strong support during the school board election from those critical of the school administration.

After the election, he said he would continue to work with a group interested in school affairs but has been seen more and more frequently at city council meetings.

Last week, he was spokesman for a group opposing the city's Safety committee recommendations for traffic control on Alicante drive.

It is generally assumed there will be two council seats vacant in the spring. One is held by Jack Fassler who has announced she will run for the San Mateo county board of supervisors.

The other is George Mason's [illegible]

JAMES FOX
Enters Race

James Fox Seeks Seat In Pacifica

James Fox, chairman of the Pacifica Planning commission and often an outspoken critic of city policies, today announced he will run for the city council in April of next year.

His is the second candidacy to be announced in a week. Recreation Commissioner Grace McCarthy declared last week she would run for the council.

Fox owns the Linda Mar Hardware store. He has been a resident of Pacifica since 1955.

Fox has been a member of the planning commission for six years. He helped organize the Pacifica Chamber of Commerce and served as its secretary and on the board of directors.

He and his wife, Laurine, and their two sons, Steve, 14, and Cliff, 13, live at 32 Alcala court.

SCENIC CONSIDERATION

Sign Approved— With Stipulation

The Daly City Planning commission kept scenic considerations in mind last week in granting the West Coast Advertising company permission to construct a billboard at the corner of Junipero Serra Boulevard and Citrus avenue.

The permit was granted with the stipulation that one year after the proposed Junipero Serra freeway is officially designated a scenic highway by the state division of highways, the company will take down the billboard.

The advertising firm agreed to the stipulation.

The highway division had informed the commission that the sign would be visible to drivers from the freeway.

In other action the commission approved the application of Niek Daher of San Francisco to rezone properties in the Crocker Estates from single family to multiple-family dwellings.

The commission had asked Daher to have the lots rezoned to eliminate "islands" of single-family zones in an area of multiple-dwelling zones.

The commission, however, held over the rezoning request of James P. Belk, 700 Niantic avenue.

Belk told the commissioners he planned "to build as many two-bedroom apartments as possible" on the property.

The commissioners tabled the matter until Belk presents specific plans.

Signs Along Coast Road To Be Aired

A Pacifica committee organized to study the controversial issue, freeway landscaping versus advertising for local businesses, will met for the first time tonight.

The citizen's committee has been appointed to ferret out public opinion and report back to the city council on a proposed sign ordinance.

Businessmen, led by Pacifica chamber of commerce officials, have argued that the new coast-al freeway should have signs advertising local businesses.

Others, including many members of the Park, Beach and Recreation commission, have argued

New Chamber Is Organized On Coastside

A new organization, welding all San Mateo county coastside civic groups together to promote the development of the coastside was formed last week at a meeting held at Princeton inn.

To be known as Cabrillo Coastside Chambers of San Mateo county, representing 75 miles of coastline from San Francisco to Santa Cruz counties, the organization will seek industry, homes, apartments, business and work to continually improve the business climate on the coastside for the economic benefit and growth of the area.

Spearheaded by the Pacifica, Princeton-by-the Sea, El Granada and Half Moon Bay chambers of commerce and the Montara-Moss Beach improvement club, the organization hopes to have representatives from Pescadero, San Gregario, Miramar and all other areas of the coastside.

Elected president is Judge Manuel Bettancourt of Half Moon Bay and executive secretary-treasurer is Basil Gladieux who is manager of the Pacifica chamber of commerce.

Vice presidents are the presidents of the participating groups, as follows: Mario Torrigino, Pacifica; Herbert Schaffer, Montara; Rex Thomas, Princeton-By-The Sea and Ed Sousa, Half Moon Bay. A Pescadero vice president will be named at the next meeting.

Mort Levinson, Pacifica and Mrs. Opal Bischoff, Princeton-By-The Sea were named as a policy committee to draft the objectives of the organization.

Bettancourt declared that the general idea of the organization is to "Unite to promote the growth and welfare of the great coastside of San Mateo county."

The group took action to launch an all-out campaign to secure the location of a proposed new state college for San Mateo county on the coastside.

The group will renew the request to the San Mateo county

ON ALICANTE

Pacificans Split Over Stop Sign

Residents of Alicante drive in Pacifica split with neighbors last week on recommendations to the city council for improving traffic conditions on their street.

A report from the city's Safety committee presented councilmen with seven recommendations for slowing traffic on the busy, winding and steep residential street.

Safety committee members were asked by the council to make the report after Alicante residents petitioned for action when a small boy was injured by a speeding auto.

However, last week 51 residents of Alvarado, Duran and Desvio courts, which branch off Alicante, petitioned the council to reject two of the Safety committee's seven recommendations.

Rene Cardinal of 4 Duran court said the petitioners particularly objected to the Safety committee's recommendation that the stop sign at Alvarado and Alicante be changed to make the stop at Alvarado as it enters Alicante and that the white line on Alicante be removed.

Cardinal and Harry Moseley of 8 Duran court asked that the stop sign be kept as a needed protection for drivers making left hand turns at the intersection.

Mrs. Harry Moseley complained that the report had been prepared by two inexperienced members of the Safety committee.

Chris Benner of the city Safety committee, defending the report, said the recommendations were made after a complete study of the situation and hearing comments from all residents in the vicinity of Alicante.

Other recommendations by the Safety committee for Alicante include: install a three-way stop sign at Manzanita; remove stop signs at Banyan way at Alicante and install a stop sign at Alicante and Terra Nova boulevard.

Also, install a truck route sign at Alicante and Linda Mar boulevard, indicating a truck route off Linda Mar boulevard; remove directional signs indicating directions to Frontierland, rifle range, schools on Linda Mar boulevard

D.C. to Act On Budget

The Daly City council Monday will act on the city's 1963-64 final budget, according to City Manager Edward Frank.

If the budget is approved the council will probably set the tax rate for the year.

The present tax rate of $1.48 per $100 assessed valuation.

LIBRARY COMMISSION SAYS

It Shouldn't Guard Morals

By DON MILLER

THE DALY CITY Library commission agreed last week it shouldn't become the guardian of people's morals. But it agreed some sort of closed book stack policy was necessary in the city's library system.

It's needed, members heard head librarian Samuel Chandler say, because some books are repeatedly stolen while others are of such a nature that their purpose should be explained to young people before they are signed out.

The commission discussed the potentially explosive closed stack issue, which in some quarters might be considered a censorship issue, after Chandler had reported of a complaint voiced by a high school student over his inability to draw a book from the library system.

The book is "Lolita." Chandler said the student had reported that he was unable to take the novel out of the John Daly branch of the library because he was told it was in a locked case.

The student said he had been told that he could'nt look at the novel without parental permission.

Chandler described the student as "quite incensed" over the incident. He said the youth was a leader on his high school campus and had played a key role in this year's youth-in-government program, carried on in conjunction with Daly City governmental officials.

After investigating the incident, Chandler told the commission, he was unable to find any governing policy covering closed stacks or the books that might be placed upon them.

"With the stir going around the state about this 'Dictionary of American Slang,' I think it would be a very wise thing for the Library commission to have a policy governing all branches of the library and thus not put anybody on the spot," he remarked.

Chandler then summed up

Christen Lands Meeting Set

The possible annexation of the Christen lands to Daly City will be thoroughly aired during a special program at Monday night's meting of the Daly City council.

The council has invited representatives of civic groups and other interested citizens to hear a presentation by developers of the lands.

Those attending the informational program will be invited to question the developers on aspects of the proposed annexation.

WESTLAKE STORES OPEN WEDNESDAY AND FRIDAY NIGHTS

Pacific Parade

By DON MILLER

WELL, ALL the hoopla of the last several months about Bayshore City and all this annexation business is scheduled (at least at this writing) to wind up in a grand finale tomorrow.

That's when the compact community of 4000 souls joins hands with Daly City and the two are wedded forever more.

For Bayshore folk, the leap into an incorporated status marks the return to a state of affairs that went on for six years during the depression before the state legislature decided it didn't want its citizenry betting on dogs.

Just what incorporation has to do with dog racing seems a bit far-fetched at first glance but the two were thoroughly intertwined in December of 1932 when Bayshore decided to go big league and become a city.

But before we tell you that story, let's go back to the last century for a picture of what Bayshore was then and how it ultimately evolved into what it is today.

The area first was known as a part of Visitacion Valley. The valley today is bisected by the San Francisco-San Mateo county line.

(Tomorrow, that will be the San Francisco-Daly City line.)

Visitacion Valley and the entire Peninsula from the Golden Gate to South San Francisco once was the personal domain of Jacob Leise, a pioneer American who became the owner of such a vast holding through a grant from Mexico.

As time went on, Leise sold off some of his holdings and one of the buyers was an enterprising German immigrant, Henry Schwerin, a baker who was destined to leave a lasting mark on Bayshore and to be remembered by having a street there named after him.

Schwerin's way with the biscuit and the bun proved enormously successful in the growing port of San Francisco and his bakery business boomed. Later, he and a partner bought 300 acres of land in Visitacion Valley that extended from Bayshore north past an area now occupied by the Cow Palace.

Schwerin started a nursery in the valley that thrived for many years. His neighbors in those pioneer days included such early Bayshore figures as A. D. Miller, a dairy farmer.

Also on the scene then were a fertilizer factory and a Chinese fishing village.

BAYSHORE in the 1800s was blessed with a small inlet that permitted the graceful schooners of that era to tie up close to the fertilizer factory.

Shortly after the turn of the century, however, the Southern Pacific railroad, a gargantua of early railroading days in the West, wanted to extend its line along Bayshore.

To do this, however, would mean the closing of the inlet.

As the story goes, the railroad hired a man to get a job with the fertilizer factory and instructed him to alert the railroad of a weekend when there weren't any ships scheduled to sail into the inlet.

When such a weekend rolled around, the railroad went into action and by Monday had constructed a bridge and had laid tracks across the inlet. That was the last the inlet saw of the schooners.

Before the railroad came along, the San Bruno toll road, predecessor of today's Bayshore boulevard, had brought a fleet of settlers, goods and services into Bayshore and the community grew steadily.

The toll road sparked the construction of road houses at key points along the way. One of these was called the Seven Mile House, built where Geneva avenue today intersects Bayshore boulevard.

It boasted of amusements and a grocery store in addition to food and lodging. Another early Bayshore structure was the Visitacion Valley hotel, erected across the toll road from the road house.

★ ★ ★

THROUGH the years as neighboring areas turned to incorporation to provide services for their citizens, Bayshore folk stood fast, preferring instead to remain a relatively quiet community in the northeastern corner of San Mateo county.

That brings us to the dogs.

In December of 1932, with one eye on a $10,000 subsidy that would be accorded a city for a dog track and another eye on the influx of bettors' money on food and services, Bayshore voted 157-86 to incorporate.

The move was taken for one purpose: to enable Bayshore to house a dog track—a sport prohibited by the state in unincorporated areas.

Well, the dogs brought fame and fortune to Bayshore and the city thrived—despite the depression.

John P. Lawson became Bayshore's first and only mayor and his fellow councilmen included Matthew Parker, Harry Smith, Homer Thomas and Frank Johnson.

Other city officials included Samuel I. Jones, city attorney; H. R. Brown, city judge; A. C. Higgins, police chief; N. C. Wilson, fire chief; Emma Shaw, city clerk and Louetta Riley, city treasurer.

For six years on a site now occupied by the Geneva Drive-in theater, the dogs chased the rabbits and the betting public of the San Francisco Bay Area chased the odds.

It all came to an end, however, in 1938, when the state abolished dog racing — everywhere. Down the drain went Bayshore's reason for existing as a city—the $10,000 subsidy.

Rather than pay taxes to support municipal services previously paid for by the subsidy, Bayshore's folk decided to end their community's status as a city and return to the life of an unincorporated county community.

The "city" of Bayshore City stuck, however, and through the years the community has been the only area in the county and possibly the state known as a "city" that isn't a city.

★ ★ ★

THE YEARS after dis-incorporation rolled by relativly uneventful until 1952 when the county assessor's office concluded that Bayshore's assessed valuation wasn't keeping up with the times.

The valuation was duly increased, prompting a howl of protest from the 650 residents who lived in Bayshore then.

So loud was the howl that the community threatened to join San Francsico if the assessments weren't revised.

Well, the threat to secede from the county and join the big brother to the north faded and nothing ever came of it.

And because nothing did and because the state got rid of those dogs a quarter century ago, Bayshore City tomorow will become the eastern sector of Daly City.

Election Derby Is Under Way

who has stated emphatically he will not run again despite persistent rumors to the contrary.

Mason's atractive and personable wife, Connie, past president of the Terra Nova P-TA, active in the Federated Women's club, American Field Service and other groups, is mentioned by some as a possible successor to her husband.

Pacifica's first announced candidate for city council, Mrs. McCarthy, is expected to make a strong bid for a seat.

She has been a Sharp Park resident for more than 20 years, has an impressive background in P-TA, is an organizer of Girl Scouting activities in Pacifica and has taught in the local school system.

She is active in the American Association of University Women and was a charter member of the Park, Beach and Recreation commission.

Her entry into the council race may have cancelled out another Pacifica woman mentioned as a possible candidate, Margaret Moseley, another Recreation commissioner.

Sheila Hyman, chairman of the Recreation commission, says she definitely has no political aspirations.

Emory Lebonville, whose efforts on behalf of the betterment of Westview have made him both friends and enemies, is expected by many to take a shot at a council post.

Lou Lorenz, another Westviewer and a recent Planning commission appointee, also has been mentioned.

Mentioned from the southern section of the city is Bill Croman who has served on the Laguna Salada school board and rolled up an impressive Pacifica vote in an unsuccessful try at unseating Dr. Jerry Miles on the Jefferson Union High school district board.

Croman has been a popular choice of city officials as the right man for tough jobs.

Recently, he stepped in as vice-chairman of the city personnel board and, has been working on the city's drainage study committee.

Mentioned by one astute observer of the Pacifica political scene as someone who would make a strong candidate is James Cooper.

indicating that the direction is over Alicante.

The Safety committee also recommended pedestrian crosswalks be placed across Alvarado at Alicante and Alvarado, on the east side of Manzanita across Alicante, across Manzanita with warning signs on Alicante near Manzanita; across Bayan way at Alicante and across Alicante at Terra Nova boulevard.

Noting that the bridge connecting Linda Mar boulevard extensions with Terra Nova boulevard is due to be completed about the middle of September, which will relieve traffic on Alicante, tthe council decided to defer decision on the matter until its meeting next week.

Shouldn't Guard Morals: Library

his own philosophy about closed stacks, as such:

"Personally, I wouldn't put 'Lolita' behind a shelf. I feel closed stacks and locked shelves have very little to do with democratic institutions. But you see, in this case ('Lolita'), someone else did not feel that way.

"The way I see it, this business of concern over so-called dirty books is not going to end for a while. We're in a cycle right now."

CHANDLER said he had asked a college student working as an intern with Daly City government this summer to prepare a proposed policy covering closed stacks.

The intern, James W. Kennedy Jr., from San Francisco State college, studied the Daly City library system and concluded that "closed shelves are contrary to the purposes of the library."

He noted, however, that in some cases the "peculiar nature of a book" places it in a special category and recommended that it should be the prerogative of the head librarian to determine if such books should be placed on a closed shelf.

Chandler observed that "it would be a thorough headache" if every time a book became controversial or questionable that it had to be passed upon by the commission. And he added:

"This policy (Kennedy's recommendation) puts the monkey on the back of the city librarian. I want you to understand my philosophy of this thing. I'm not much afraid of the American public or the public of Daly City reading dirty books."

He said that 'The Dictionary of American Slang" is now in a closed stack because "it's the kind of book that gets stolen" and because it's the type of book that should be explained to young people before given out.

HE SAID the library system has had "some very sad experience" with some books that are "so desirable" that they are stolen repeatedly.

One such book, he explained, is a handsomely illustrated treatise on the origin of names that parents give to their newborn.

Mrs. U. R. Kendree, a member of the commission, suggested that Chandler periodically draw up a list of the books that are kept in closed stacks and submit it to the commission.

Purpose of this would be to keep the commission informed of what books are not on open shelves rather than have the commission oversee Chandler's judgement.

The head librarian reported that there are approximately 50 books now in closed stacks. He said they are available to anyone who asks for them.

DURING the discussion of the proposed policy on closed stacks, a visitor who declined to give his name said he believed that the policy should state that a closed stack be open to any adult.

"This policy, in effect, closes shelves," she declared.

Chandler agreed that some of the terminology might be construed to "limit circulation."

Dr. Lionel Farber, another commission member, remarked that any policy "needs very careful wording."

Mrs. Kendree noted: "We may find we're restricting the use of books."

In the end, the board agreed that a policy was needed but that the exact terminology should be drawn up only after careful thought.

Members decided to work individually on the wording and report their recommendations at the commission's meeting next month.

The new group also authorized action on continuing the work already started to invite the Pacific Gas and Electric company to transfer the Bodega Bay nuclear power plant to the coastside, which would represent an investment of $50 million.

Letters were ordered sent to Congressman J. Arthur Younger, Senators Thomas H. Kuchel and Clair Engle asking assistance in starting a long term drive to secure a federal testing plant for conversion of sea water for both agricultural and home use. One such plant is located in San Diego.

Styles plans to build an eight-foot fence to block strong winds from the Pacific Ocean. The planning staff said no homes could be built next to the Styles home and recommended approval.

Valenzano submitted letters signed by neighbors on both sides of his property to get commission permission to build a seven-foot fence. The neighbors said there would be no objection.

A request for a use permit by Anthony Masini, a commission member, to store cars on three lots on Hillside boulevard was held over until next meeting.

Masini said he would abstain from voting on the matter and the lack of a quorum prevented any action from being taken.

The commission changed its September 10 meeting to September 11 because the Daly City council will be meeting in the city hall chambers that day.

COUNCIL VEXED

Is He Salesman Or Poll-Taker?

The question of whether that man going from door to door is really a polltaker or a salesman vexed Pacifica city councilmen last week.

Richard Thomas, Western field director for the National Federation of Independent Businesses who was in town to meet local businessmen, poll them on their viewpoints and incidentally pick up some memberships for his organization, objected to local officials labelling him a solicitor and demanding a license fee.

Working out of the organization's San Mateo headquarters, Thomas said he had never been called upon to pay a fee for soliciting members in any of the other cities in the eleven Western states he visits.

He told councilmen at their meeting last week that he has been calling on local businesses annually since 1943 and only got into trouble this year when he paid a friendly call on the Pacifica police department and other city officials to let them know he was in town and was informed he should have a business solicitors' license. A license costs $25 in Pacifica.

In a lengthy appeal before the council, Thomas said he definitely had no magazines or booklets to sell.

City Attorney Conrad Reisch told councilmen that in issuing business licenses, definitions are always a problem.

If the agent's primary purpose is to take a poll, he is not by definition a solicitor, said Reisch. However, if his purpose is to take memberships, he is a solicitor.

The city council accepted Thomas' statement he was only in Pacifica to take a poll and waived the license fee.

Plan Board To Consider Zone Change

The Daly City planning commission Tuesday will consider a rezoning application from Gus Pedemonte, owner of the Cypress Hills Golf course, for properties on the south side of Crocker avenue between Wellington avenue and Peoria streets.

Pedemonte is requesting the zoning be changed from single family to multiple dwelling.

Also on the agenda is a rezoning request from James Belk, 700 Niantic avenue, Daly City.

Belk, who is seeking a change from single family to multiple dwelling, was told to bring specific plans for the property before the commission can approve the request.

A lot variance has been requested by Karp Properties of San Francisco to reduce the front setback to seven feet on property on Edgeworth avenue between Eighty-eighth and Eighty-ninth streets.

The commission also will consider a use permit for Anthony Masini for storage of cars on lots on Hillside boulevard between Bismarck and East Cavour streets.

Woman Falls From Truck

A Daly City woman was injured Monday when she fell out of a truck rounding a curve on South Mayfair avenue in Daly City.

Grace Dow, 1032 South Mayfair, dislocated her elbow when she fell from the truck driven by her neighbor, Mrs. Sudie J. Santos of 1030 South Mayfair.

Police said the injured woman fell because the door was improperly closed or because she leaned against the handle.

She was taken to Kaiser Foundation hospital in South San Francisco for emergency treatment and transferred to Peninsula hospital.

Apartment Plans Draw Objections from Residents

A request to establish multiple-dwelling zoning in property being annexed by Daly City met with opposition last week at the Daly City planning commission meting.

The commission later approved the zoning.

Three Broadmoor residents — Thomas Callan Sr., C. W. Smith and Russell Parkison — voiced protests over the zoning request of Gus Pedemonte.

Pedemonte said he plans to build three-story apartment houses on lots on 87th, 88th and 89th streets.

The residents objected to the zoning on the grounds the property was not yet in Daly City, the adjacent area was strictly residential, there would be excessive parking on the streets by the apartment tenants and the apartment houses would cause drainage problems in the area.

Callen said his property was included in the annexation and he did not desire multiple zoning in the area.

He Escaped Unhurt

Seat Belt Clinic Is Scheduled

The young man (above) standing at the side of his totally wrecked auto was wearing a seat belt at the time his car, traveling 65 miles an hour, careened out of control and rolled over several times. He escaped without injury.

This, says the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce, indicates the life-saving qualities of seat belts.

To demonstrate the role seat belts play, the chamber will conduct another in a series of seat belt clinics Saturday and Sunday in the parking lot of Serra Bowl.

Legislator Objects to Prior News

An objection to news stories that describe city council action before it happens was voiced last week by Pacifica councilman Harland Minshew.

Minshew said he often receives telephone calls from citizens protesting council action when, in fact, the matter had not even been discussed.

He said one newspaper published budget decisions before they were voted by the council.

Minshew said at a later date he would present some specific recommendations governing the release of information from city hall.

The councilman's comment was made after John Geary of 860 Palmetto avenue, complained because a letter from him to the council was released to the newspapers before it was read at council meting.

Geary charged it was a breach of privacy to have a letter to the council published in the newspaper before it has been officially received and acknowledged by the council.

City manager Karl Baldwin told councilmen that as a matter of procedure all communications received prior to a council meting are filed with the city clerk made available to the public and made available to the public and the press.

Jerry Nissim of 18 Lakeview drive, Daly City, reported to police over the weekend that a limb from a mulberry tree in front of his home was missing.

Terra Nova Signups Sought

High school students who have moved into the Vallemar, Rockaway Beach or Linda Mar areas of Pacifica during the summer may register for testing and programming at Terra Nova high the school any weekday between 9 and 2.

Terra Nova principal, Dr. Harold Tonini, emphasized that this will prevent a last minute rush or the possibility of missing opening day instruction.

Chief Attends U.C. Seminar

Battalion Chief Frank Specht of the Daly City fire department has completed a five day fire prevention seminar at the University of California at Berkeley.

Subjects included gas, plastics handling of dangerous chemicals, fire safety for hospitals and fireworks laws, rules and regulations.

Chief Kennedy stated: "A fireman's job has become more than just a job, it has now become a scientific one. Nowadays, a fireman must have a knowledge of new products and new manufacturing processes.

"This knowledge helps the man fight a fire in the proper manner. It helps the fire prevention officer to note improper storage and use of these new products that could cause the loss of life and property damage."

All new Daly City firemen will be required to attend San Mateo Junior college for at least four semesters. Subjects taken will be advanced methods of fire fighting.

Pacifica Council Okays Repairs of Old Coast Road

By LOIS McNALLY

Repair of the old coast road, linking Westlake Terrace with Pacific Manor Shopping center, by using federal funds and help from the Doelger corporation was approved by Pacifica city council last week.

In a speed-up procedure designed to get the road open by October 1, an advertisement for bids has been placed and bids will be opened at 1 p.m. Tuesday. A contract will be awarded by the city council at their meeting next Wednesday.

A large section of the old road collapsed during the October 1962, heavy storm and flood. An allocation from the federal government for disaster relief will be used to replace material and restore the roadbed.

The government will pay up to $5000 for grading operations. Doelger corporation has agreed to pay for engineering, paving and construction of drains, including a 54 inch culvert at the bottom of the steep drop off.

With construction of the new overpass at John Glenn drive under way, without the coast road Westlake Terrace residents would be able to reach Pacifica only by going north to Daly City and returning on the freeway.

In other action, the council voted to drop a reclassification to planned community of the Maestri annexation, 387 acres east of Linda Mar, at the request of the owner.

The parcel is the site of a proposed trailer park. Plans for this were dropped by the owner after considerable opposition had been voiced.

A dispute over an exchange of property in the Fairmont area was resolved when Thomas Gallen, attorney for the Doelger corporation, told councilmen the company would exchange two 30 by 100 foot lots on improved Farallon street for a 7110 square foot lot on unimproved Highland avenue, owned by William Fritz of 1095 Escalero avenue.

The area, just north of Edgemar, is being resubdivided by the Doelger corporation and new streets laid out, necessitating the abandonment by the city of some "paper" streets.

Fritz earlier complained to the council that Gallen had asked him to swap his parcel of land for a 40 by 100-foot lot.

Plans for Oddstad development in the Rockaway beach area, Linda Mar 29, have been shelved, Pacifica city councilmen learned. However, plans for the improvement of Oddstad way, an area planned for about 70 homes, are being continued.

At the urging of William Mackay of 600 Hewitt avenue, councilment asked that extending Oddstad way to connect with Copeland and Fassler avenues, be studied.

Councilmen approved a resolution abandoning Sierra avenue, a "paper" street between Naomi and Minerva streets in Vallemar.

In response to a question by E. D. Walsh of 131 Bonita avenue who said that his driveway extended into the street right-of-way, city officials said a title search would be made to determine the legal status of the land.

Put over until next week, pending a report from the council's civil defense committee, was ratification of the countywide civil defense council.

Baldwin said the cost to Pacifica, based on assessed valuation and population, would be about $150 yearly.

The council formally adopted a change, giving firemen a 57½-hour work week. City Manager Baldwin said the change would assure coverage by two men at all times at the Linda Mar firehouse.

During the budget sessions, councilmen aroused the ire of local firemen by calling for an increase to a 60-hour week. They later compromised for the lesser increase.

The council referred to the park, beach and recreation commission a request by Willard Petersen for use of the Rockaway sewage plant property by the Millords, a car club.

Petersen said 25 boys who are active members need a place to work on their cars and that they have the money and materials available to build an attractive building on the site, which could be used by other groups for recreational purposes.

Claire Sadjadi was denied an appeal on a previous denial to add a porch and stairway to a home at Clarendon and Lunetta way in Sharp Park.

Neighbors protested when the log cabin style building was moved to its present location and raised on top of a garage and service room. They protested to the planning commission that the two-story structure was incompatible and unsightly. Planners previously told Mrs. Sadjadi to put her stairway inside the house.

The final map for Goodman Heights, a development east of the highway in Sharp Park, was approved.

Claims for damages from Catherine Peck, 178 San Francisco boulevard, and Jacqueline Burian, 224 Moana way, relating to sewage backups, were referred to the city's insurance carrier.

The council adjourned until 7 tomorrow night for a personnel session to find a replacement for Thomas Tromborg, who recently resigned from the park, beach and recreation commission.

'Missing' Planner Irks Fox

The case of the missing commissioner is bugging James Fox, chairman of the Pacifica planning commission.

Fox said last week he has been trying without success to locate Dick Selmi, absent without leave from the last three planning commission meetings.

Fox told city councilmen at their meeting last week that he was sitting in for Selmi who had originally been assigned to attend.

There is no regulation limiting the number of meetings that a commissioner can miss, said Fox. However, he added that the commissioners usually leave word when they will not be present.

The whereabouts of Selmi, who resided at 1259 Galvez drive, Pacifica, from February to June 1963, is presently unknown to his fellow commissioners.

Fox said that prior to his residence on Galvez, it was rumored that Selmi, a real estate salesman, was living out of the city in Montara or Moss Beach. Fox added that he was perturbed that Selmi is not a registered voter in the city.

Man Charged With Assault

A Daly City man was charged with assault with an intent to murder Saturday in connection with the beating of his former wife.

Arrested was Robert H. Watkins, 39, of 373 Broadway avenue.

Liria Watkins, 36, of 134 Bruno avenue, Daly City, told police Watkins had hidden in a closet and had attached her when she arrived home.

A neighbor, Kenneth D. Anderson of 140 Bruno, told police he heard a muffled scream. He ran to the Watkins home and managed to subdue Watkins, he told investigators.

Police said Watkins has a long history of marital difficulties.

Apples for Teacher Will Be Given Away

Some 5000 bright, red apples will be distributed to youngsters Saturday in the Westlake Shopping center.

The apples-for - the - teacher program will be held to promote the center's annual back-to-school sales.

Bert Feltinton, president of the Westlake Merchants association, said the apples will be distributed from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. from a little red schoolhouse on the center mall.

Fifty of the apples will be gold in color and will be worth a silver dollar.

Buffles, Ruffles and Rogers, a trio of clowns, will be on hand to lend a festive note to the promotion. Free balloons will be distributed. In addition, Ruffles will present a brief puppet show.

By LE PACINI

SOME FANS are wondering why the Giants, who lead the league in homers and who are tapped in that category in the American league by only Minnesota and the Yankees, have lost so many one-run games.

Let's, as the politicians say, set the record straight. To begin with, the Giants (as of this writing) have still won more one-runners than they've lost.

Secondly, homeruns and winning don't necessarily equate, as the Giants so aptly demonstrated in 1947 when they set what was then a major league record by hitting 221 of the beauties while barely managing a fourth place finish.

Keeping these facts in mind, however, perhaps the following statistics will help to explain why the Giants with all of that power—have lost as many close ones as they have. These statistics represent the number of hits it takes each club (again, at this writing) to score a run. In other words, the figures should give an indication o fhow well the clubs are using whatever power they have.

NATIONAL LEAGUE		AMERICAN LEAGUE
Milwaukee	1.92	Minnesota	1.80
Cincinnati	2.00	New York	1.91
St. Louis	2.02	Detroit	1.96
San Francisco	2.05	Cleveland	1.99
Los Angeles	2.12	Chicago	2.02
Philadelphia	2.18	Boston	2.02
Chicago	2.20	Kansas City	2.06
New York	2.20	Baltimore	2.15
Pittsburgh	2.34	Los Angeles	2.27
Houston	2.70	Washington	2.80

You will notice that league standings aren't necessarily reflected in these statistics, but, for what it's worth, it is interesting to note certain points.

The leading homerun hitters in the American league, Minnesota and the Yankees, are also the leaders in runs-scored-per hit. The Yankees appear to be running away with the flag, but Minnesota still has at least a fighting chance.

While leading their league in homeruns, however, the Giants are only fourth in runs-scored-per hit. Milwaukee, the leader in this category, is, admittedly, out of the race — but obviously for reasons other than their ability to take advantage of the long ball.

Even though far down the ladder in team batting averages as compared to the Giants, who are among the leaders in that category, Milwaukee, which at this writing is second to the Giants in homers hit, is outproducing the Giants in ability to take advantage of long ball power.

Even the lowly Kansas City Athletics, 10 points behind the Giants in team batting average and, with only half the Giants' homers (last in the American league in that department), have managed to score virtually as many runs on the hits they've produced as have the Giants.

So there you have one possible reason why the Giants lose those one run games with all of that available power. They're just not putting men on in front of those homers, nor, apparently, are they taking advantage of those singles and doubles.

The National league, incidentally, stands behind the American league in hit producing runs — 2.18 to 2.1—but has compiled an astounding composite earned run average of 3.24 as against the American league's 3.68.

★ ★ ★

WE WERE surprised to learn that Houston's yet-to-be-completed but already famous domed stadium will be permanently enclosed — the dome not to in any way be removable, as initial reports had led to believe.

This was rather shocking to us because it means, in effect, that baseball will become an indoor game, there and baseball indoors could cause many, many problems.

As a kid, we remember taking our softball games inside the gym's basketball court on rainy days and how, in that dead air, everybody seemed to become a long-ball hitter and how difficult it was for pitchers to put anything on the ball.

We asked Westlake resident Ed Montague (who also happens to be a Giant scout) if, in his recent travels, he had heard anything about how this problem of indoor baseball would be handled in Houston.

"I haven't heard a thing about it, and in fact hadn't known that the dome wasn't to be retractable. If this report is true, however, and they make no allowances for wind resistance, there could definitely be some problems.

"I don't know whether or not there's a parallel between the dead air in an enclosed field and high altitude air such as you get in Salt Lake but if there is, Houston's suddenly going to have a bunch of homerun hitters. That Salt Lake City used to be a graveyard for pitchers."

CON DEMPSEY, another Westlake resident and a former major league hurler, also was asked what he thought of the ramifications this type of stadium could produce.

"Unless they're goin gto provide some sort of artificial wind resistance — such as with the air conditioning system they'll have — it will be very difficult for a pitcher to throw any kind of a breaking pitch and almost impossible to throw a good one.

"It may help knuckleball pitchers to control their pitches — since the direction of knuckleballs depends a great deal on where the wind takes them — but the question is, will knuckleballs be baffling without wind resistance moving them? I doubt it."

Daly City Olympic Day Is Slated for Tomorrow

Junior Olympic day is tomorrow, as the Daly City Recreation department winds up its summer playground program.

The program, scheduled for Westlake Park, will feature the citywide play-offs in eight tournaments and a variety of track and field events.

Boys and girls will be competing in six age divisions as they represent their playground.

The program will begin with a parade of countries (each playground will represent a different country) at 10:30 a.m. followed by an opening ceremony.

The morning's program will be devoted to the tournament play-offs, and competition in the standing broad jump, softball throw for distance and the walking marathon.

Following the lunch break, the track events will begin the closing ceremony slated for 3:30 p.m.

Climaxing the entire day will be a watermelon feed for all participants.

In last week's area play-offs in the tournaments Turkey (War Memorial Community center) led all playgrounds with 17 area champions, followed by Sweden (Pauline Brown) with 16, and Great Britain (Westlake Park) and Mexico (Garden Village) with 14 each.

Bayshore Dog Racing in 1938

ANOTHER ERA—A look into Bayshore City's past is provided by this photo, taken in 1938, after a race program at the dog races once held on what is now the site of the Geneva Drive-in theater in Bayshore City. Holding the trophy to be awarded owners of the winning dog is John P. Lawson, the first and only mayor of Bayshore. Others are unidentified. Bayshore City became an incorporated community in 1932 in order to provide a home for the dog races, outlawed in unincorporated areas.

MVP

WESTMOOR HIGH school slugger Bruce Hix was named the Most Valuable Player in the recent American Legion State baseball championship tournament in Yountville. Hix played for the Jose Sarto-SF Police team in the tournament. The San Francisco team took second, losing to Long Beach 10-7 in the final.

Golfer Fires Cypress Ace

Andrew "Babe" Uccelli, a prominent Daly City businessman, fired a hole in one on the fifth hole at the Cypress Hills Golf course.

It was the first hole in one for Uccelli, a weekend golfer for the past 20 years. Uccelli is a par golfer.

His ace came while playing in a threesome with Daly City councilman Edward Dennis and Ralph Jordan. He won the match 1 up.

REC. DEPT. ACTION

Leaders Keep Records Clean

The PAL Pirates, BYA Skyline Plaza team and the Relish Bakery team all notched victories last week to keep their records unblemished and maintain leads in their respective leagues.

The leagues are sponsored by the Daly City Recreation department.

PACIFIC COAST-MIDGET

Tony Moss and his PAL Pirate crew ran up the black flag this week and scuttled the Bender Roofing midgets 28-6.

Moss handled mound duties for 5 innings and allowed the Roofers only four hits.

Rich Hall took over in the sixth and the Roofers came to life when Ron Horwell hit a double, scoring two rons.

Pirate Jerry Mahood starred in the game by blasting a grand slam homerun and going 3 for 3 at the plate. Six costly errors hurt the Roofers also. Inability of the pitchers to groove the ball gave the Pirates 14 walks. Only six Pirates were left on base. The only teams left to challenge the Pirates for the league title are the OLPH Grays and the BYA Blues.

INTERMEDIATE LEAGUE

BYA Relish Bakery moved out in front in the Intermediate league last week with a pair of wins. The Bender Roofers fell before the Bakery team.

Mario Sandoval handled the pitching and hitting chores for the Bakery.

Joel Carrara held the Bakery to six hits but they managed to parlay them into 11 runs.

Sandoval hit three for three and scored twice. Gary Soules nailed two for two while Gary Stang accunted for the other hit.

Later in the week Vic Yerby took his turn on the mount for the Bakery against the OLM Leopards. The Leopards collected only two hits in losing 7-1. Bakery batter Gary Stang went three for four, Yerby and Ron Judd two Anibale collected one each.

JUNIOR LEAGUE

Skyline Plaza pulled the rug out from under the PAL Cubs last week, 13-5, to hang onto the Junior league lead.

With the Plaza leading 1-0, the Cubs came from behind to blast out five runs and take the lead in the top of the fifth.

Up to this point, Marv Smith and Ron Mini had been engaged in a mound duel. BYA Skyline Plaza came back in the bottom of the fifth against Mini to notch the win.

Internationals Take Lob Lead

The Daly City Internationals took a stronger grip on first place in the Adult Lob Ball league this week defeating the Daly City Billiards team 20-3.

The Fireplugs walloped the Notables and then played a cliff-hanger with the Toros to a final score of 7-6.

A & G Vacuum moved into contention last week with wins over the Billiards 18-10 and the Playboys 8-5.

If the Fireplugs knock off the Internationals, it could mean a 3-way tie for first place.

Saints Notch Second Win

The San Francisco Saints continue their winning ways as they knotched their second win in the second round of play in the Tri-City Baseball league by downing the Jefferson A. C. club 4-1.

Jim Weber was tough on the mound for the victorious Saints as he allowed only two hits and one unearned run in pacing the San Francisco nine to their seventh straight victory.

Getting only three hits from Jeff pitcher George Egan, the winners took advantage of them in scoring their four runs.

CHICAGO — Bronko Nagurski, famed Minnesota and Chicago Bear fullback in the late 1920's and early 1930's, was named All-America fullback and tackle in 1929—the only time All-America selectors named only 10 men to the team.

NORTH COUNTY SPORT SCENE

Clodhoppers Top Summer League

The Clodhoppers continue to maintain their division lead in the summer basketball league sponsored by the Daly City Recreation department.

The Mission street five kept in front of the long division action by downing the Rangers 39-27.

The undefeated Clippers stayed right behind the leaders with a forfeit victory over the Rams.

In the Clodhoppers' victory, Ed Larios' reboundin gand 16 points, and Steve Willis' 13 points were the keys to the win. The losing Rangers had the height but not the shooters as they couldn't main tain a sustained attack.

The remaining played game in the long division saw the Whalers move into third place by downing the Celtics 69-32. All five Whaler starters scored in double figures as they completely outclassed the undermanned Celtics.

Mike Hannigan was the top scorer of the game with 16 points as teammates Jim Mason and Bill Vance scored 14 points each and Rich Atkins and Mike Frank 13 and 12 respectively.

The Knights cinched a tie for first place in the short division by romping to their fifth straight victory with an easy 52-16 victory over the Linda Mars.

Jim Belfrage's 12 points and Capt. Tom Houston's playmaking were the keys to the Knights' continuing victory streak. The Linda Mars were paced by Capt. Bill MacPhillips' 7 points.

Matt De Bernardi and Steve Zarate were the big guns as the Challengers stopped the Half Pints 49-39 in the week's top short division game.

De Bernarid's scored 15 points, mostly from the top of the key, and Zarate's hit for 12.

Skeptics: Take Note!

The skeptics who think Lake Merced's trout aren't on the hefty side sometimes should talk to Harry Pearl, 98 Windsor drive, Daly City.

An avid fisherman, Pearl hooked a two-foot, seven-pound rainbow in the south arm on red sugar roe. The catch, he says, was the biggest of his angling carer.

FOR MEN ONLY

Cookout Entries Deadline Friday

Entry deadline for the Westlake Shopping center's big cooking extravaganza, a cookout championship contest for men only, has been extended until Friday.

The cookout will be held in the center mall beginning at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, August 31.

It will be co-sponsored by Kaiser Aluminum Foil, the American Lamb council, General Foods and General Mills.

Wally Blake, center promotion director, said winners of the cookout will share $100 in cash. The top two winners will receive de luxe Big Boy barbeque units that usually retail for $70.

Each male chef who enters will receive a gift and also will share merchandise awards.

The contest will be limited to to 25 men only. Church men's groups, lodges and other men's organizations have been invited to enter a representative.

Each contestant will be given a chef's hat and apron as his official cooking apparel. Each also will be sponsored by a store in the shopping center. He will be assigned to his own cookout area on the mall.

The Big Boy Barbeque company will supply 25 barbeque units for the contest.

Kaiser Foil will supply aluminum foil. Each contestant preparing a lamb barbeque will be supplied with his choice of lamb cut by the American Lamb council.

Other meats used must be furnished by the contestant at his own expense.

General Foods and General Mills will supply a number of items.

The rules for the cookout will be identical to those used in the national Kaiser Foil barbeque championship competition.

The winning recipe will be entered in the national contest, which will be held in Hawaii.

A number of well-known area cooking experts will judge the Westlake contest.

Official entry blanks are available at all Westlake shopping center stores.

The 25 men chosen for the contest will view a 13-minute color movie of the last Kaiser Foil cookout contest in Hawaii to give them an idea of the format of the competition.

Bayshore Annex Ends Long Trip

Along a Legal Path

By RON BATES

THE ANNEXATION of Bayshore City to Daly City will be virtually complete tomorrow and the "gateway to the Peninsula" will add almost 4000 residents and $1.5 million in assessed valuation to its tax rolls.

City departments, which have been preparing for months, will move into the hitherto unincorporated area and begin services.

The move will culminate a nine-month trip along a legal path that wandered all the way to Sacramento and back.

The trip had its beginnings just before Christmas when the youngest city in the county—Brisbane — decided to become the largest city in the county also.

It announced its intention to extend its city boundaries north to the San Francisco county line and east into the Bay to Alameda county.

Erased in one fell swoop would be the bulk of the industrial property of Bayshore City.

The proposed boundary line cut in and out of the inhabited portion of Bayshore, taking in only the choice industrial properties of the Southern Pacific Railroad, PG & E and Stauffer Chemical company.

Brisbane officials instituted proceedings under the Unhabited Territory act of 1939 and announced they would take in the inhabited territory later.

THE FIRST indication of the Brisbane action to the people of Bayshore was when they read of the move in the San Mateo Times. The move has been compared by a resident to "the sneak attack by the Japanese at Pearl Harbor." It had the same effect.

Within two weeks, residents united in an effort to stop Brisbane. On January 2 of this year, members of four service districts in Bayshore City met to discuss the problem and the Bayshore City Citizens committee was formed.

Attorney Thomas Bocci, a former municipal court judge, was hired to represent the committee in a court case against the Brisbane annexation.

The case, which is still continuing, has reportedly held up tax revenues the city of Brisbane expected to get from the annexed territory.

Daly City officials, meanwhile, waited on the sidelines to see what was going to happen.

The city council had its fingers burned in 1960 with the attempted annexation of Westborough and was moving cautiously.

Bayshore residents had three choices — join Brisbane, join Daly City or incorporate.

Bayshore had incorporated with little success from 1932 to 1939.

Brisbane, which had incorporated in 1961, with a total of $27 in its treasury, seemed somewhat unstable to Bayshore citizens.

Daly City apeared to be the safest bet and an unofficial petition, asking annexation to Daly City, was circulated by the committee and signed "over a thousand" residents.

In the first meeting of the new year, the council, urged on by Bocci, the Bayshore committee, and the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce, instructed its technical staff to explore the pros and cons of the annexation.

Only one Daly City resident objected.

THE DALY CITY officials met later with officials of the Southern Pacific Railroad company, which reportedly had approached Brisbane with the annexation idea, and PG&E company to protest the annexation and ask them to come into Daly City.

The arguments were to no avail. Brisbane's annexation trod a rocky road in the courts.

On January 24, Daly City made its first formal move. It sent a proposed annexation map to the San Mateo county Boundary commission for approval. The map included only the inhabited portion of Bayshore City, which abuted the territory taken in by Brisbane.

The move accomplished two purposes.

First, it put Daly City in a position of being contiguous to the Bayshore industrial properties in case the Brisbane annexation failed.

And second, it put Daly City on three sides of the large undeveloped Crocker hills and the nationally famous Crocker Industrial park.

The Bayshore Citizens' committee was given a green light to circulate a legal petition to the registered voters formally requesting annexation.

Out of a possible 825 registered voters, the petitioners got 612 signatures.

According to the committee's petition chairman, Mrs. Kenneth Pack, the petitioners were turned down by only 28 persons.

But the shadow of opposition grew as the directors of the Cow Palace, fearful of their autonomy and possible taxation by Daly City, voiced objection to the move.

Political forces came into play and the San Francisco Board of Supervisors gave formal support to the Cow Palace directors' stand.

In a tension-packed public hearing, the Daly City council heard State Deputy Attorney General Clayton P. Roche and Cow Palace director John Brucato assail the annexation as "ill-conceived, hasty, illogical and impractical."

The Cow Palace was joined by four large companies in Bayshore City, representing $539,000 in assessed valuation, in formally protesting the annexation.

The protesting parties needed support of the owners of 51 per cent of the assessed valuation to defeat the annexation. They reached a high of 43 per cent.

Before a crowded chamber, Bocci lashed out at the Cow Palace directors. There had been no organized opposition against the annexation until they objected, he said.

Daly City Mayor Joseph Verducci assured the Cow Palace that the city had no intention of raising admission taxes or interferring with the operation of the huge sports arena.

The directors were not convinced, however.

A meeting with the directors, some of whom said they would be receptive if verbal assurances were written, failed to produce results.

AT THE following meeting, each of the councilmen took a good strong verbal swing at the directors but it proved to be only a preliminary bout to the main event in Sacramento in June.

The state senate passed an "emergency" bill that would delete the Cow Palace and the Midway Village Housing project from the Daly City annexation. The bill was sponsored by San Francisco Senator Eugene McAteer.

Some effective lobbying by Councilman Robert St. Clair and City Manager Edward Frank, and presentations by Verducci, City Attorney Paul Hupf and County Manager Robert Stallings killed the bill in the state assembly committee on local government.

Only one member of the 15-man committee approved the bill.

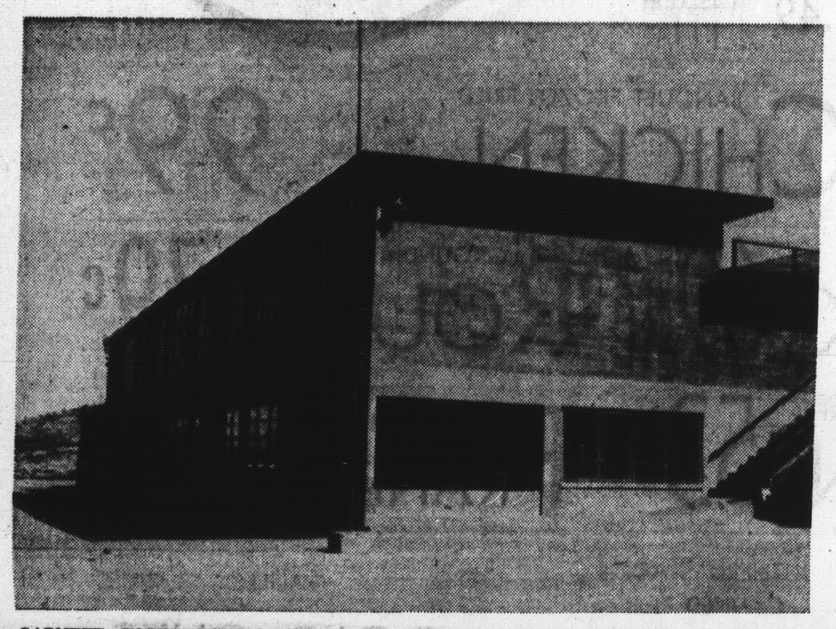
The special annexation election drew 82 per cent of the electorate in Bayshore City July 2 — a figure that surprised officials.

The residents voted overwhelmingly 543 to 116 to join Daly City.

Although the name Bayshore City will probably stick, as does Westlake, it will still be part of Daly City.

And when the television cameras sweep the area during the 1964 National Republican convention, the words of the commentator will be heard all over the nation:

A Bayshore School



GARNETT ROBERTSON Elementary school was built four years ago entirely from the Bayshore school district's own funds. Cost was $165,000. It was named after Mrs. Garnett Robertson, a member of the district's board of trustees for more than 20 years.

3 Schools Located in Community

TWO ELEMENTARY schools, an intermediate school and Jefferson High school serve the children of Bayshore.

The elementary and intermediate schools are administered by the Bayshore school district. Jefferson is one of four units in the Jeffersn Union High school district.

Bayshore's first school was a two - room building on Schwerin street, erected about 1920. The school administration then was known as the Visitation school district, which later became Bayshore.

The district's two elementary schools are Bayshore at 155 Oriente street, which houses kindergarten through eighth grades and Midway at 101 Iwo Jima road in the Midway Village project, which houses kindergarten through second grades.

Enrollment at Bayshore last year was 325 students. Midway enrolled about 160.

THE INTERMEDIATE school (seventh and eighth grades) is Garnet Robertson, named after Mrs. Garnet Robertson, a member of the district's board of trustees for the past 20 years.

It is on Saipan road at the south end of Midway Village.

Mrs. Dorothy Fitzgerald is principal of Bayshore and Gail O'Grady is principal of Garnet Robertson and Midway.

The intermediate school is the newest of the three.

It was completed four years ago at a cost of $165,000. All of the funds for the construction came from the district's resources. A loan was not needed.

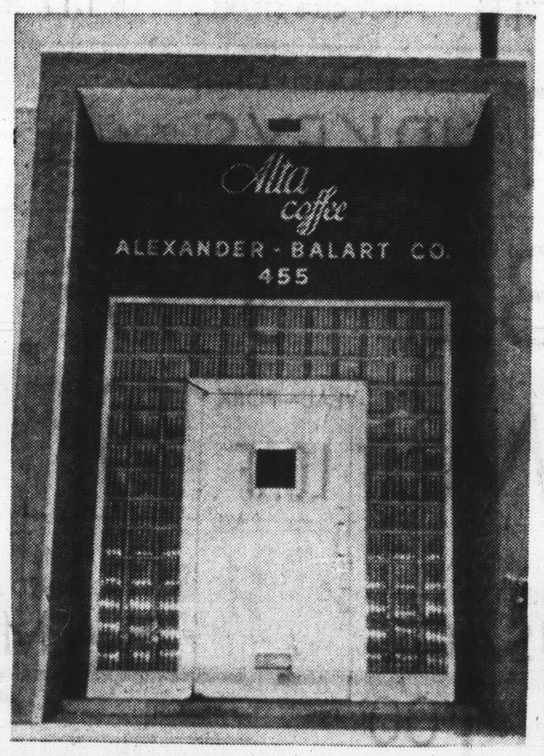
This reflected a pay-as-you-go policy that the district follows, according to Natalie Lipman, district superintendent since 1945.

The district's tax rate is $2.50 per $100 of assessed valuation. It was raised last year from $1.50—the first change in the rate in ten years, Miss Lipman said.

President of the board of trustees is David Barry Jr. who was re-elected this year to a new four-year term.

Other board members also serving four-year terms are Mrs. Robertson, clerk of the board; Mrs. Pearl Butler, Mrs. Marcia Datzman and Ferdinand King, also re-elected this year.

Head Offices



OFFICES—General offices of the Alta Coffee company are shown here at 455 Allen street, across from the S & W Fine Foods company warehouse. The coffee firm is one of more than 50 businesses in Bayshore that will join the Daly City business community.

Daly City Eyes Industrial Park

The annexation of Bayshore Cty tomorrow brings Daly City closer to what city officials freely admit is a prize goal: the annexation of Crocker Industrial park, considered the most successful real estate package in San Mateo county.

This $25 - million industrial jewel is less than four years old. It is located in Guadalupe Valley near the county's northern boundary, southwest of Bayshore City.

When completed, more than 75 companies will be located within its 250 acres.

Firms already located in the park include Dohrmann Hotel Supply company, Micheline Tire corporation, Willys Sales corporation, Western Asbestos company, the Stanley Works, Copper Tire and Rubber company, the Hockwalk company, the Crane company, the A. J. Glesener company, and the publishing firm of Holt, Rinehart and Winston.

The project, Midway Village, today is owned by the San Mateo County Housing Authority, which has no connectin with county government.

The authority bought the project from the government and continues to rent units only to navy and marine personnel.

The project has 436 units. It was first occupied in May of 1945—a few months before the end of World War II.

Two schools are located on the project grounds—Midway, a small primary school and Garnet Robertson, an intermediate school for seventh and eighth grade students.

JOINS DALY CITY

Fire District Is Dissolved

The Bayshore Fire Protection district was dissolved last week in a special election in Bayshore City. The vote was 251 to 12.

The vote means that all the equipment of the Bayshore Fire department will go to Daly City tomorrow.

The Bayshore City Board of Fire Commissioners officially canvassed the votes Monday at a special meeting. The three-man board was also dissolved as a result of the election.

The position of secretary, held by William G. Weman, was eliminated.

The ten-man fire-fighting force, headed by Chief Herbert Ritzmann, will be absorbed into the Daly City Fire department along with its equipment.

The Bayshore Fire district had a completely volunteer fire department until 1952 when part-time firemen were placed on salary.

Then in 1956, the district hired full-time firemen.

It still maintains a 16-man volunteer force, which will be combined with the Daly City fire volunteer program.

Equipment that will be received by the Daly City Fire department includes: the station house at 3001 Geneva avenue; a 1961 La France truck with a 75-foot aerial ladder; a 1954 General Motors truck; a 1949 Mack truck and a 1957 Ford pickup truck which Ritzmann uses as a chief's car.

Bayshore firemen who are joining Daly City are Captains Frank Regan, Vernon Brooke and Roy Young and fire fighters Manuel R. Carmona, John P. Harris, Alfred Baldocchi, Robert Barbara and Jay Modglin.

Committee Was Headed By Ritzman

The Bayshore City Citizens committee was the single most influential force in the annexation of Bayshore City into Daly City.

And the chairman of that committee was Bayshore City Fire Chief Herbert Ritzmann.

"I think the annexation will be wonderful for this community," Ritzmann said last week. "I believed in this annexation and that's why I worked for it."

He said it was gratifying to see the efforts of hard work fulfilled.

The 46-year-old fire fighter will be placed in the Daly City Fire department as a battalion chief and will work out of the central Daly City office on Lake Merced boulevard.

Ritzmann is selling his home in Bayshore City and is moving into the St. Francis Heights area with his wife Adaline and three of his four children—Kathleen, 15, Ronald, 9, and Nancy, 6.

His fourth child, Judith, 19, is married and lives in San Carlos.

Ritzmann was born in Iowa but moved to Lodi when he was six years old.

He lived in Lodi until a year and a half ago when he moved to Bayshore City to become fire chief.

He joined Lodi's volunteer firemen program in 1943 and became a full-time fireman in 1949.

He worked his way up to assistant fire chief, a position he held for 11 years.

A graduate of Lodi High school, he has received extensive fire training since joining the fire department in 1949.

Besides attending local fire fighting schools he went to eight fire department training conventions and five annual national fire department instructors conferences.

Businesses Total Fifty

More than 50 commercial enterprises in Bayshore City will become a part of Daly City's business community tomorrow.

They include such large firms as Crown Cork and Seal company at 2650 Bayshore bouievard, S & W Fine Foods company warehouse at 333 Schwerin street, Alta Coffee company at 455 Allen street and the Duskin Manufacturing company.

Bayshore's main business street, if it can be called as such, is Geneva, which runs diagonally across the northern sector of Bayshore from the San Francisco city line to Bayshore boulevard.

Five-Man Board Governs Bayshore Sanitary Unit

An elected five-man board of directors is responsible for the Bayshore Sanitary district.

Chairman of the board is Eric Carlile. The other members are Elmer Ayddlott, William Showers, John Broda and Charles Slinger.

The district has a 25-year lease with the city of San Francisco to dispose of approximately a million gallons of sewage daily.

The unusually heavy flow is due to the heavy industry in the Bayshore area, pump operator-inspector Lonnie Higgins said.

The board meets every third Thursday of the month at the Sanitary hall, 2908 Geneva avenue.

'Major Import,' Arch Declares

"The Bayshore annexation is of major importance if we are to grow economically since industrial lands are a part of this plan," Daly Finance Director Joseph Arch declared early this year.

He also noted that the population of 4000 in Bayshore would bring Daly City some $32,000 annually in lieu of taxes and gas tax subventions.

Diamond Utility District Supplies Residents Water

The Dimond Utility district handles the water needs of the residents of Bayshore City.

The water is sold to Bayshore residents at a metered rate by the city of San Francisco.

An elected three-man policy making board of directors, composed of President William J. Weman, Peter Ruggeri and McMalon Counts, meets every second Thursday of the month to handle the business affairs of the district.

The district was incorporated under this arrangement eight years ago.

Offices for the Dimond Utility district are in Lawson hall, 127 Acacia street. The district owns the building and rents the upstairs to San Mateo county for a branch library.

3 Petitions Circulated By Citizens

Three petitions had to be circulated during the eight-month period that Bayshore citizens were battling Brisbane and seeking annexation to Daly City.

Petitions chairman was Mrs. Kenneth Pack.

Circulating the first petition, opposing Brisbane's action, were: Mrs. Victorine Chagnon, Mrs. Edward MacDona,d Mrs. Dominic Caloiaro and Fred Simmonds.

Mrs. McMalon Counts, Francis Cvetovec, Mrs. Gloria Mae Barizon, Mrs. Lena Barbara, and Lynn Smith. They collected 479 signatures.

The volunteers who circulated the first petitions for annexation to Daly City were:

Mrs. Herbert Anderson, Mrs. Joseph Azzopardi, Mrs. Lena Modglin, Frank Regan, Mrs. Marse Datzman and Mrs. Edward Gambino.

Mrs. James Hall, Wayne Leibert, Edward MacDonald, Henry Ochoa, Mrs. Floyd Osterberg, Kenneth Pack, Mrs. Bernard Painchaud, Mrs. John Pleskach, Mrs. Eldred Showers, Mrs. Fred Simmonds and Mrs. Roy Young.

Persons circulating the final petition to join Daly City were:

Alice M. Anderson, Barbara Azzopardi, Lena M. Barbara, Gloria Mae Barizon, Vernon S. Brooke, Victorine C. Chagnon, Gladys M. Gambino, Esther Hall, Eva M. Hue, Wayne Liebert, Edward A. McDonald Jr., Henry P. Ochoa, Florence M. osterberg, Kenneth Pack, Mae E. Painchaud, Claire G. Showers and Catherine M. Young.

The 'Enemy' Got Hooked Into Ticket

Almost every battle has its lighter moments and the battle between Bayshore City and the City of Brisbane over the annexation of approximately 10,000 acres of industrial properties was no exception.

To Mrs. Charles Stuvengen, 106 MacDondal avenue, legal secretary of the Bayshore City Citizens committee, goes the unique honor of getting the enemy to help the Bayshore cause.

At a dance held to raise funds to fight Brisbane's move, Mrs. Stuvengen sold Brisbane City Attorney Conrad Reisch a raffle ticket.

Reisch didn't know then what the raffle was for.

THE CITY OF DALY CITY

Residents Played Key Role in Bayshore Annex

Committees Worked to Join D.C.

THE ANNEXATION of Bayshore City to Daly City was the result of considerable effort by several persons living in Bayshore.

Mrs. Earl H. Robertson, 208 Acacia street, has been living in the Bayshore area since 1941. An active person in schools since she came to the area, she currently is secretary on the school board.

She has been a member of the board for 21 years and has one of the three schools in Bayshore named after her — the Garnet Robertson school. She was president of the Bayshore P-TA.

Mrs. John Pleskach, 494 Oriente street, is also active in school activities in Bayshore and in the county.

She is vice president of the 17th California district of P-TA. She has been in Bayshore for almost 16 years and has been in the Bayshore P-TA for 13 years. She has served as president for two years.

Mrs. Pleskach is a member of the San Mateo County Citizens Advisory Committee on School Reorganization. She was active in the scouting movement in Bayshore and has received a Scouter's award for her activities.

Mrs. Wayne Liebert, 88 Calgary street, is also a former president of the Bayshore P-TA and an active participant in the scouting program.

Although her children have been out of scouting for several years, she and her husband still play an active role. The couple has received Scouter's awards.

The Lieberts were active in the circulation of petitions and were co-chairmen of a dance committee to raise funds to fight Brisbane in court.

Mrs. Kenneth Pack, 112 MacDonald avenue, was seen everywhere during the eight - month long annexation proceedings as petitions and publicity chairman.

Her daughter gave a speech on democracy at a P-TA meeting one night.

A battle between the Brisbane and Bayshore school districts over some homes in the Southern Hills developments was going on. A person at the meeting asked: "How could we talk about democracy when this battle was going on and the people's voice could not be heard?"

Her daughter asked her what she was going to do about it and the first thing Mrs. Pack knew she was out having petitions signed.

"That was the seed for me," she said.

Mrs. Pack's husband, Ken, a foreman at Schlage Lock company, was one of her hardest workers and one of her staunchest supporters to "keep at it and get things done."

The couple has lived in Bayshore for 12 years and have three daughters, Vernoica, 16, Yvonne, 14, and Rosalyn, 9. The girls pitched in with free babysitting for some of the active members of the Bayshore City Citizens committee and housekeeping for their busy mother.

Veronica was still able to make straight A's at Jefferson High school and be a member of California Scholarship federation. Yvonne made the honor roll at Garnet Robertson.

Mrs. Pack is a registered nurse in the San Francisco Emergency hospital system and is Constitution and By - Laws committee chairman for the Mary's Help Hospital Nursing Alumnea association.

Mrs. Thomas McNamara, 327 Rio Verde street, another active participant in the Bayshore Citizens committee, was a volunteer employe of the Diamond Water Utility district, she had the names and addresses of all the homes in Bayshore and spent many hours sending material to residents.

She was also very active on a telephone committee to get out the vote and on getting petitions signed.

Although she and her husband have no children, she is quite active in the P-TA and has served as president of the group.

She has also served as representative to the 17th California District of P-TAs.

Mrs. Floyd Osterberg, 870 Schwerin street, served as treasurer of the Bayshore City Citizens committee, the same position she holds as an active member of the Bayshore P-TA.

Mrs. Osterberg was known by her fellow workers on the committee as the one "who never gets turned down on signing a petition."

Because of her personality, she never got people angry and even people who were against the committee's moves signed her petitions, they said.

Mrs. Osterberg also aided in preparing the many pieces of literature that were either sent or distributed to the homes in Bayshore.

Mrs. Osterberg's children also pitched in with painting and delivering posters. They are: Douglas, 10, Debbie, 8 and David, 6.

She and her husband have lived in Bayshore since 1951.

Mrs. Virginia Pajkos, 183 Rio Verde, is president of the Bayshore P-TA. She is a past president of the Young Ladies Institute at the Church of the Visitation. She also teaches catechism.

Mrs. Pajkos was a co-chairman with the Lieberts of a dance committee to raise funds for the Bayshore committee. She was active on the telephone committee and in getting out literature.

Verducci told Brucato, "So why are you worried?"

Cow Palace Tops in Prestige

The biggest building both from the standpoint of size and prestige in Bayshore City is the nationally-famous Cow Palace, the scene of major sportings events and exhibitions each year.

The Cow Palace was dedicated in 1941, culminating a six-year building program.

Shortly after it opened, it was requisitioned by the army as a transportation staging area during World War II.

Next year, the huge arena will be the scene of the Republican National convention July 13 to 16—placing Daly City in the international spotlight.

In 1956 a regiment of 4300 television, radio and newspapermen covered the GOP convention held at the Cow Palace.

By the time the Democrats met in Los Angeles four years later to nominate their 1960 presidential candidate the press representation had grown to 5400. It's bound to be bigger in '64. The benefits in terms of valuable publicity for the area are nestimable.

In terms of immediate dollar benefits, Thor M. Smith, executive vice president and general manager of the San Francisco Convention and Visitors bureau, which landed the GOP for the city, figures that the forthcoming Republican confab will mean between $5 and $6 million to the local economy.

This estimate, he points out, is based on an average stay of five days for some 25,000 delegates, press, technicians and the curious.

Which is to say nothing of investments in large entertainments by political leaders, money spent by the communications industry, etc.

When it's considered that new money brought into the community turns over from 10 to 20 times, it is apparent that a sum of $5 million has an economic impact of anywhere from $50 to $100 million.

The 1964 GOP convention, by exposing millions of newspaper readers and television viewers worldwide to the San Francisco and Daly City area, will act as a stimulus on the local visitor industry.

COW PALACE back in 1949 when this picture was taken was called the Grand National Livestock Exposition. However, it was popularly called the Cow Palace and in 1953 the arena's board of diretcors threw in the sponge and decided to give the arena that name officially. Next year, the Cow Palace will be the scene of the Republican National convention.

Michael Doelger Joins Optimists

Michael Doelger, manager of the Westlake apartments, has been welcomed into membership of the Lake Merced Optimist club.

The club has asked members to offer suggestions for a new meeting place each week. The present quarters, Westlake bowl, has notified the club it plans to cease serving luncheons.

DEVELOPMENT OFFICIAL SAYS:

No. County to Maintain Fast Pace

San Mateo county's major growth in the next seven years will go east to Foster City, south to Redwood-Menlo Park, and west to the Coastside, with North county maintaining its already accelerated development, declared Henry J. Bostwick, vice president and general manager of the San Mateo County Development association, in an address yesterday before the San Mateo-Burlingame Board of Realtors.

Bostwick said that the growth of Foster City, originally scheduled for 15 years to reach 35,000 population, is now expected to be fully completed within seven years, based on demand for properties there in residential, apartment and industrial park locations.

Basing his predictions on economic experts opinions, he said that the county will grow to 650,000 population by 1970, and predicted that the Coastside will attain a population of 280,000 by 1990.

Need for Roads

The big "if" on these predictions depends on the rate at which citizens of the county recognize the need for roads to adequately handle the traffic problem and the ability of county leaders to perfect a mass transit system connecting with both Santa Clara county and San Francisco.

He said that the county was correct in rejecting the original rapid transit proposal, as it did not make use of existing facilities and placed too heavy a burden on taxpayers of San Mateo county while making no connection with Santa Clara county where thousands of San Mateans are employed.

Bold Imagination

Bostwick told the realtors that the future called for bold imagination and said that there is a changing concept among industrial park developers regarding planning.

"It is now recognized that residential facilities must be provided in or near industrial parks, which is just reverse of executive thinking a few years ago," he declared, "which points to the fact that the transportation problem has become the nation's number one headache."

Gil Davis was chairman and H. Kent Atwater presided.

Brisbane Adds Fire Coverage

The Brisbane city council, in a special session last night, passed a resolution placing part of the Bayshore City fire protection district under the Brisbane fire department.

A second resolution authorized city attorney Conrad Reisch to initiate the necessary legal steps in the acquisition of the fire district. The move is in connection with Brisbane's land annexation of part of Bayshore City's industrial area.

A portion will officially become part of Brisbane in February, 1964. This section was put under the Brisbane Fire district at the meeting, effective immediately.

Board of Directors Waged Stiff Fight Against Annex

The addition of Bayshore City and its big plum, the Cow Palace, was marked by a vigorous struggle mounted by the board of directors of the Cow Palace.

At a hearing before the Daly City council, both State Deputy Attorney General Clayton P. Roche and Cow Palace Director John Brucato assailed the annexation on the grounds it was "ill-conceived, hasty, illogical and impractical."

Roche said large land-owners in the area were not consulted before the annexation move was taken. He asked that preceedings be dropped until they could be contacted.

Daly City finance director read a paragraph from the California Code, stating that admission prices at the Cow Palace could not be raised without the permission of the governing board.

"We have no right to add an admissions tax," Mayor Joseph

Sugar 'n' Spice

By Nell Norton

JUDGING by the advance publicity, a cookout in the Westlake Shopping center August 31 will be quite an exciting affair with the genelemen showing off their cooking skills and vying for prizes and the chance to have their recipes submitted for consideration in a final contest in Hawaii.

Does the man in your home like to don a chef's hat and barbecue in his own inimitable style? And is that inimitable style such that he might be a winner in this contest? If so, why don't you whip down and get an entry form and persuade him to "show the world" what he can do with just a bit of charcoal, lamb and his own special combination of ingredients.

☆ ☆ ☆

WELL NOW, that cookout is a week away and we'd better think about something for dinner now. Mrs. Ann Cordes, 697 Southgate avenue, Daly City, was kind enough to bring these recipes to share with you.

HOT-DIGGITY DOGS 'N' POTATOES

3 Tbsp. butter or margarine
3 Tbsp. all-purpose flour
1½ teas. salt
½ teas. dry mustard
¼ teas. garlic salt
1 can (1 2-3 cups) undiluted evaported milk
1 cup fresh milk
½ cup parmesan cheese, grated
2 Tbsp. chopped parsley
3 Tbsp. grated onion (1 medium size)
4 cups chopped, peeled, cold baked or boiled potatoes
1 lb. hot dogs

Use a two-quart casserole, butter it and set aside. Melt butter or margarine in a large saucepan, blend in flour, onion, salt, mustard and garlic. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and it boils for one minute. Stir in cheese, parsley, potatoes and hot dogs, cut in half. Pour into buttered casserole and baked in 350 degree oven 45 minutes or until bubbly. Serves six.

☆ ☆ ☆

ANN TELLS me these cookies are similar to brownies in texture and appearance and are most delicious.

WALNUT SURPRISE

1 cup brown sugar
1 egg
1 tsp. vanilla
½ cup flour
¼ teas. salt
¼ teas. soda
1 cup chopped walnuts

Stir together, sugar, egg, vanilla; add flour, salt, soda and walnuts. Spread batter in greased eight-inch square pan. Bake 20 minutes in a 350 degree oven. Leave in pan, cut in square swhile still warm.

☆ ☆ ☆

LAST, but certainly not least, comes a casserole from down south. Mrs. Peggy Street of Los Angeles served this dish when her sister, Mrs. Ceil Collins of San Francico, visited her recently. She was nice enough to send it along to us.

GRECO

1 yellow onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
1 pound ground meat
1 pound ground meat
1 or 2 cans mushrooms, drained
2 cups shell macaroni
3 cans tomato sauce
1 can cream style corn
Grated sharp cheese

Fry onion and green pepper in small amount of oil until glossy. Then add the ground meat and brown, sirring frequently to prevent sticking. When browned, add the mushrooms and remove from heat. In the meantime, boil the macaroni, drain and add to meat mixture. Pour in the tomato sauce and corn. Mix well and place in greased casserole. Refrigerate. When ready to bake, sprinkle grated cheese on top. Bake in 300 degree oven for one hour.

Charts and tables are used to show how the sciety's funds are spent, and to demonstrate visually the spread of its research activity.

SIMMER LIVERS FIRST

Some cooks like to simmer chicken livers for a few minutes before wrapping in bacon and broiling. To do this, turn the livers into boiling water, bring the water rapidly to a boil again, and then reduce the heat for the simmering.

Gallery Offers 2 Exhibits

The Bolles gallery of San Francisco will exhibit the paintings of Marcel Floris and painting constructions by Nicholas Roukes.

For the last 12 years, Floris has lived and worked in Caracacas, Venezuela. Aside from his painting and etching, he is the art director for one of the most important advertising agencies in Latin America.

Born in France, Floris made his professional start in Nice, and continued his work in Paris until 1951 when he travelled to Venezuela.

Floris has had one-man shows in Caracas and Paris, and has been in numerous group exhibitions in Latin America—including the annual salon in the Museum of Fine Arts in Caracas and the International Exhibition of Paintings in Valencia in 1956.

Roukes is a native of San Jose. His undergraduate work was done at San Jose and Fresno State colleges. He received his master's degree from Stanford university where he also was awarded the Stanford humanities art prize in 1951.

He has had one-man shows at the San Francisco Museum of Art, the Phoenix Art center, the Eric Locke gallery, the Stanford Research institute and has exhibited widely in the Southwest and West Coast.

Monotypes by Gwen Stone will be shown in the Petite gallery running concurrently with these two shows. Both end August 30.

Courses in Languages Are Planned

University of California Extension foreign language courses for both beginning and advanced students will be given this fall on the University of California Berkeley campus and at the San Francisco Extension center.

The evening classes begin in early September. A schedule of locations and starting dates is available from the University of California Extension.

Campaign For Funds Scheduled

Plans are being formulated for a fund raising campaign next month in Pacifica in conjunction with National Cystic Fibrosis.

The campaign will include a tiny tots fashion show and a mothers' walk.

Helpers and organizers are needed, campaign officials report. They may call Mrs. Sandie Narzisi at PL 6-6906.

Information on the mothers' walk may be obtained from Shirley Lee at 359-2738 and Norma McDonald at 359-3154 in Linda Mar and Louise Shulthise at 359-4015 in Paacific Manor.

This year's poster girl for the fund drive of the San Francisco chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research foundation is eight-year-old Mary Jo Opatz.

She will visit Paciifica with drive officials next month to present Mayor Harold Feyge with chapter resolutions and an honorary membership in the foundation.

The research group was founded in 1955. It depends for its support on 150 chapters throughout the United States that conduct fund-raising drives.

Cystic Fibrosis, foundation officials explain, is one of the most serious and common of the life-threatening chronic diseases of childhood.

About 30,000 children in the country today are afflicted with the disease. It affects the lungs, digestive system and sweat glands.

More than 30 care, research and training centers have been established in the county to combat the disease.

AAUW Group Sets Dinner

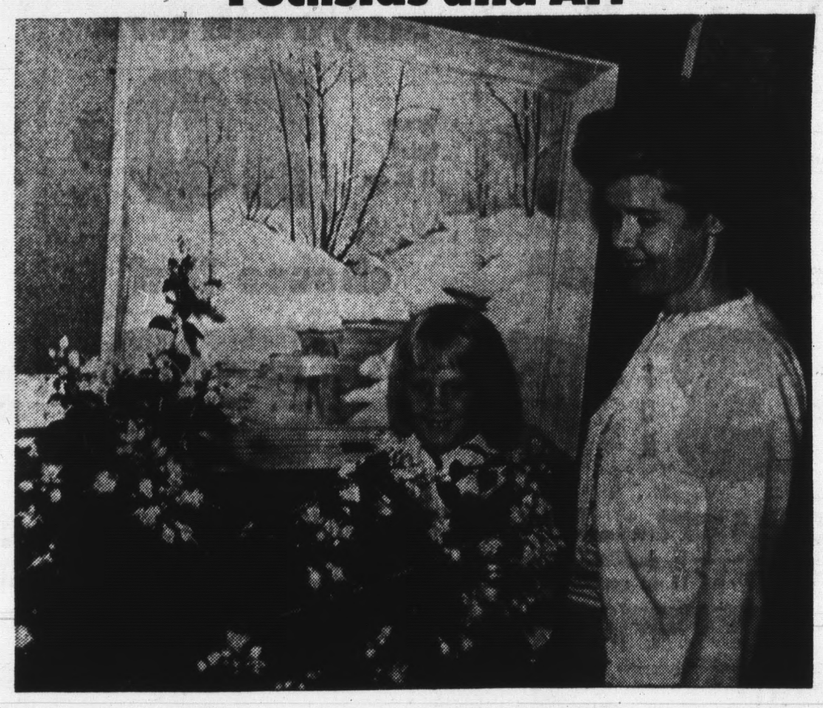
An historic setting overlooking San Francisco harbor will be the scene of a dinner meeting of the American Association of University Women's modern living section Friday.

A roast beef dinner will be served at 8:30 p.m. at the 113-year-old ort Mason Officers' club to section members, their husbands, and guests.

Preceding dinner will be a no-host cocktail hour beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the group's private dining room, which includes a small dance floor.

Mrs. Fred Mizer, chairman of the modern living section, has turned over the chairmanship for the event to Mrs. Roger Ritchey, 1720 Eleventh avenue, San Francisco 22.

Fuchsias and Art



MRS. BETTY SCHNECKER and her daughter, Collette, 8, of 1232 Alicante drive, Pacifica, admire a fuchsia plant at a combined fuchsia-art show in the Pacifica city hall. Painting in background was one of the canvasses in the show. The program was co-sponsored by the American Fuchsia society and the Pacifica Art Guild. (Post-Times photo)

Residents Favor Transit In Voters League Polling

Over 600 county residents who participated in the League of Women Voters' public opinion poll at the recently ended county Fair and Floral Fiesta had some pretty definite ideas.

The majority endorsed county participation in a rapid transit district, although they indicated most of them would not be benefitted if feeder lines were not provided.

Some 482 voted in favor of urban and cross-county highway development, regardless of rapid transit improvement. Only 96 said they opposed this.

Of the total, 424 were registered voters and 360 have lived in the county for over five years.

They disapproved, 354 to 213, the consolidation of the city and county into one metropolitan government.

They held a definite opinion that major public improvements should be financed by bond issues, voting 407 to 156 in favor of submission of construction projects to the voters.

A total of 335, opposed financing major public construction out of property taxes on a pay-as-you-go basis, though 223 favored this.

Development of the bay tidelands for recreational use drew 461 votes in favor, 101 against compared to 268 in favor and 289 who opposed development of the bay tidelands for industry and homes.

Unification of the elementary school districts in each high school district was favored 387 to 171, while unification of the entire county as one school district was opposed 310 to 256.

On the question of an 11-month school year, 277 approved and 314 opposed.

Chairmen of Committees Are Selected

Norman Sanger, new president of the Laguna Salada Education association, has announced some of the chairmen of the organization's committees for the following year.

Mrs. Joan Ponder, teacher at Pacific Manor school, has accepted chairmanship of the membership committee. Joan Fazio, Vallemar school, is chairman of the social committee. Leslie Linhares, president-elect and teacher at Sanchez school, will be chairman for the program committee. Mrs. Mateel Todd, Linda Mar school, has accepted chairmanship of the character education committee.

Louanne's Datebook

By Louanne Heath

MRS. SHERRI THOMAS, the Pacifica artist whose sudden success and wide acclaim has been almost fantastic, reports that she continues to be amazed and gratified by the attention her work is receiving.

Latest evidence of the interest being generated by her canvasses are two invitations she has received to exhibit her work. This weekend, her painting entitled, "Ocean," will be among the works being exhibited in the Jack London building in Jack London square in Oakland.

The show, being presented by the Society of Western Artists, will be open to the public from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

The second invitation to present a number of her works for a full year in the Redding Art Gallery in Carmel, has been accepted by Mrs. Thomas well.

According to this prolific artist, the pictures in the Redding Gallery will be changed or added to periodically and thus will offer her a wonderful opportunity to display the variety and scope of her creations. At present, Mrs. Thomas is exhibiting three of her paintings in the gallery, located at San Carlos and Sixth avenues in Carmel.

HOME AFTER spending three and a half weeks with the large, lively and lovable family of her daughter is Mrs. Martha Cohn of Westlake.

Mrs. Cohn flew to Seattle to visit Dr. and Mrs. Ronald Geballe and their eight children. Her husband, attorney Julian Cohn, flew up the final week of the visit and then escorted his wife home.

HOME AFTER a visit to Disneyland and Catalina Island are Dr. and Mrs. Gregory Genovese and their youngsters.

AMONG THOSE reporting an especially enjoyable time at the Holy Angels parish picnic were the families of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lapachet, Mr. and Mrs. Denzel Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Revetria.

THE WALLACE HOBSON family left for a new home in Kansas City this past weekend after having received word that they were not to be moved!

Confusion and turmoil in the Hobson household began in late June when Hobson was informed that the utility company for which he works was considering transferring him to the Midwest.

Hobson was sent for a period to Kansas City and the rest of the family, wife, Jean, and five youngsters prepared to move.

About mid-July, the company made a definite decision against the transfer and for a few days things returned to normal for the Hobsons. But only briefly, for by August 1 they had received notice of transfer.

☆ ☆ ☆

A THIRD DAUGHTER, Staci Leigh, is the new member of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Torres of Pacifica. Staci also has one brother.

☆ ☆ ☆

MRS. LOUIS TRICERRI, this year's Holy Angels Fashion Show chairman, has set September 4 as the date that the various chairmen of her subcommittees will be announced.

Work on this annual extravaganza has continued through the summer months, reports Mrs. Tricerri, and not only are the chairmen selected but the programs and the tickets already have been ordered.

The entire Tricerri family took time out from their various projects last week to take out of town relatives and friends on a jaunt to the Country club at Marsh Creek where the rain failed to keep the happy group out of the swimming pool

☆ ☆ ☆

HOME FROM a week of camping at Clear Lake are Mr. and Mrs. Pete Busalacchi and their children and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Damato and their youngsters.

Both families took homemade kayaks with them on the outing and everyone reported having a marvelous time paddling about on the lake.

THE MEMBERS of the Notables, the Daly City Community Chorus baseball team, are having difficulty hitting the "key" to success. They went down to their fifth consecutive defeat at the hands of the Play Boys last week, according to chorus director Patti Stolz.

The Stolz family has a wonderful new key that opens the door of their brand new home in the Monte Verdi section of San Bruno. Patti, husband Woody and children, Jeffrey, 8, and Sherrice, 3, will move into the lovely home with its gracious oriental motif later this week.

AND CHURCH ACTIVITIES OF DALY CITY, COLMA AND PACIFICA

Clergyman's Role in Illness to be Aired

Fifteen hundred Bay Area ministers of all faiths have been invited to the fourth of Presbyterian Medical center's conferences on the clergyman's role in illness.

"The Unwed Mother" is the topic of the fall conference, which will be held September 11 at the center, according to Dr. Albert E. Long, series chairman.

Speakers will be Dr. Gertrude F. Jones, Dr. C. Frederic Fluhmann, Dr. Long and Dr. Karl L. Schaupp, Jr.

Dr. Fluhmann is chief of Presbyterian Medical center's department of obstetrics and gynecology, in which the other speakers are staff members.

The doctors will discuss the unwed mother's plight, the steps open to her, her medical care, and adoption procedures. Round-table discussions will follow the talks.

Service Set For Friday

Rabbi Herbert Morris will speak on the topic, "Rosh Hashonah . . . Its Origins" at Temple Judea's Sabbath evening services Friday at the temple.

Services will be held at 8:30 p.m., at 95 South Mayfair avenue, Westlake.

Rosh Hashonah, which means literally the "Head of the Year," is the Jewish new year.

The season of the Jewish high holy days begins with the Hebrew month of Elul, the month before Rosh Hashonah.

Mrs. David Skootsky will perform the candle blessing. A social hour later will be hosted by Mrs. Bobby Cohn, Mrs. Mary Flores, and Mrs. Leo Kroll.

Silver Tea Is Planned

The Christian Women's fellowship will hold its annual Peninsula district Silver Tea at Vista Grande Avenue Christian church at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow. Rev. C. L. Wilson of Forest Hill Christian church will report on the New Delhi conference on World Peace and Order.

Mrs. Paul Kenny will be soloist.

A nursery will be provided for children.

Adult Choir Sets Service

The adult choir at Broadmoor Presbyterian church will lead Sunday's morning worship service at 10.

Delmar Severy, music director and organist, will arrange the program. Jean Amick, Lelia Johnson, Dorothy Spratt and Kay Mattson will be soloists.

A full schedule of choir rehearsals will begin in September. Rehearsals will be at 7:30 Wednesday nights. Those interested in singing may call Severy at MO 4-0850.

Sermon Talks To Continue

Dr. Edward A. Wolfe's series of sermons based on God and nature continues Sunday at Wesley Methodist church. His topic then will be: "Jesus and the Waters."

Last week, Dr. Wolfe announced that Mr. and Mrs. John Abbott would become the new counselors for the junior Methodist youth fellowship and that Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lucas will lead the seniors group.

The evening program for youth will begin Sunday, September 15.

A special youth banquet will be held September 13.

Sunday, September 15, the first of a series of study periods will begin for all persons who wish to unite with or be more informed about Wesley Methodist church.

Held during the church school hour, the class will study the Methodist church, its history, doctrine, outreach, and organization.

Judea Gift Shop Opens

Temple Judea's gift shop reopened yesterday. It will be open each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon from 1 to 3 p.m. until the beginning of Hebrew school classes in late September.

At that time, the gift shop will be open during the hours of the classes. Orders for Jewish New Year cards may now be ordered from the shop.

B'nai Israel Schedules High Holy Day Services

Temple B'nai Israel will conduct its high holy day services again this year with Congregation Rodeph Sholom at Brussels and Silliman streets in San Francisco.

This is the fourth year the two congregations have scheduled joint services.

B'nai Israel's quarters at 67 Los Banos avenue are too small to accommodate worshippers during the high holy day season, temple officials explain.

Rabbi Solomon Shore will officiate at all services.

Registration for Sunday and Hebrew school will be held from 10 a.m. to noon September 8. Hebrew classes will begin September 15. All classes will be held at 67 Los Banos.

Extension Director Sets Talk

The Rev. Rodger Goodman, extension director of the Northern California Baptist conference, will be the guest speaker at Westside Baptist church Sunday at both the 11 a.m. morning worship hour and at the Sunday evening gospel hour.

The Rev. Mr. Goodman has been extensin director since 1956 and has been instrumental in starting a number of new general conference Baptist churches throughout Northern California.

He was the first pastor of Westside Baptist church, and helped organize the church.

Prior to assuming the duties of extension worker, he was pastor of the Elim Baptist church of Minneapolis, Minn. Previously, he was pastor of the Lakeside Baptist church of Oakland, California.

The Bible study and prayer hour meets this night at the home of Mrs. Pat Weatherington, 3390 Oakmont drive, South San Francisco.

Three high school youths from the membership of Bethlehem Lutheran church are attending leadership training school in Los Angeles until Saturday.

The Reverend George S. Johnson, pastor of Bethlehem Lutheran accompanied the youths to the school and is serving on the faculty.

California Lutheran college is the site for the training school, which has brought together about 200 youths from California, Nevada, Arizona and Hawaii.

The purpose of the school is to train young people in leadership.

Teenager Asks . . .

By JOE BAVARESCO

Dear Mr. Bavaresco:

I am 14 years old and I am having a big argument. My parents say I ruin my hair by ratting or back combing it and that I can't wear make-up except lipstick. I don't feel that there's anything wrong with eye make-up but my parents say I can't wear it. I don't want the other kids to think I'm a boob. Please tell them that they should let me grow up. My friends all wear eye make-up, why shouldn't I?

Miss Plain.

Dear Miss Plain:

Growing up does not consist of making yourself up to look like a circus clown and at 14 years old, that's what you would look like.

Your parents can see you better than you see yourself. They are not trying to deprive you. They want to be proud when people see their daughter. They don't want to have you go through the embarrassment of insult.

As for your friends, I'm sure if you were honest with yourself, you would say they look foolish and you wouldn't want to wear eye make-up if they didn't wear it.

Don't be a sheep and follow along. I agree you shouldn't be a plain Jane either. But draw the line somewhere and eye make-up should be out of the question. If you dress up to date, wear your hair in a style that suits you. You'll find you don't need eye make-up to stay up with the crowd.

As for your hair, I realize ratting or back combing is still in fashion but it's going out, thank goodness! Or so I hear. I'm sure it's not the healthiest thing for your hair to be ratting it all the time and spraying it with glue or lacquer or whatever it is that holds it in place.

I've read that beauticians say it can deaden your hair and do a great deal of damage.

If you need or desire advice on hair and beauty care, see a beautician. I might add here, make-up and outward appearances don't make you grown-up but the way you act does.

A reply to Carolyn A. Hawley:

Last week in the "Letters to the editor" section, Carolyn A. Hawley took it upon herself to answer my answer of what I thought of the "Dictionary of American Slang."

I thank you for all the kind words, Carolyn.

Upon glancing through your letter, I notice you refer to the "Dictionary of American Slang" as a reference book. If your vocabulary is such that you must refer to the "Dictionary of American Slang," I would say your vocabulary must be not only colorful but limited.

The Latest in Patio Eating

Warm Western air stirrred by fresh moving breezes sprinkled with summer sunshine all contribute to the pleasure of eating outside—on the patio, or in the backyard—near the pool or fragrant flowers.

Want to serve something different? Food that is really good but easy to prepare. With the new Ready-To-Bake Frozen Bread Dough now available, it takes only the flip of a wrist to prepare this "extra special" gastronomical delight. Don't back away when home-baked buns are mentioned for steak sandwiches, hamburgers or hot dogs. They are as easy to make as the most simple to prepare foods—yet, will bring endless compliments. Fresh, warm, tantalizing home baked buns—the aroma and flavor of which satisfy as only home baked bread can—will make you the talk of the neighborhood. You'll be rated as the best cook yet. They are so simple to make that the children can and "love to" make them.

Next time you are in the mood for good food—try juicy hamburgers, frankfurters or steak sandwiches served with these warm, mouth watering, freshly baked buns. Bake them in the oven inside or outside, using a reflector oven. If you do not have a reflector oven, bake them in the oven while you are making the salad. Carry a basket of buns and bowl of salad out to the patio or backyard to be eaten with barbecued hamburgers, hot dogs or steaks.

IRRESISTIBLE HAMBURGER OR HOT DOG BUNS

1 loaf (1 lb.) Ready-to-Bake Frozen White or Honey Wheat Dough

Let Ready-to-Bake Frozen Bread Dough soften. Cut into 10 pieces for hamburger or frankfurter buns or eight for steak sandwich buns. Shape each piece into a ball for hamburger buns and steak sandwiches or a long cylinder for frankfurter buns. Place on a greased cookie sheet. Let rise until tripled in size. Bake 350 degrees Fahrenheit about 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Col slightly on rack; slice horizontally and serve warm.

Irresistible Hamburger or Hot Dog Buns can be made several hours in advance or the day before. Just shape dough into buns and place on greased cookie sheet. Do not let rise at this time. Brush or spread each bun with a soft shortening or salad oil to keep surface moist. Refrigerate. They will rise slightly in refrigerator but not sufficiently. About 30 to 45 minutes before you wish to bake them; remove from refrigerator; let rise in a very warm place; bake and serve warm.

Want to make a different kind of bun without fuss for every member of the family or a variety for guests? Try Variation Buns.

VARIATION BUNS

Make buns according to directions for Irresistible Hamburger or Frankfurter Buns. After shaping dough into buns but before letting them rise; brush or spread with 1 egg yolk which has been mixed with 1 tablespoon cream or milk. The egg mixture browns to a beautiful color and holds on almost any topping. Make a different kind for each member of the family by simply sprinkling with any of the following:

Cereals:
- Crushed Corn Flakes
- Shredded Wheat
- Oatmeal, uncooked is delicious with whole wheat buns

Seeds:
- Sesame
- Poppy
- Celery

Nuts:
- Slivered or chopped blanched almonds
- Chopped pecans or walnuts

For a superb crunchy nut-like flavor try these Tempting Sesame Buns. They are rich with the flavor of lots and lots of toasted sesame seeds inside—outside—all the way through.

TEMPTING SESAME BUNS

These tasty Cheese Buns have a delicious flavor which compliments almost any meat or sandwich filling.

CHEESE TOPPED BUNS

1 loaf (1 lb.) Ready-To-Bake Bread Dough
1-3 cup cheese spread, about

Allow Ready - To-Bake Frozen Loaf to soften. Cut into 10 pieces. Shape each piece into a ball. Place on greased cookie sheet. Flatten slightly. Broccoli Is Elegant in A Casserole

Casserole-type cookery is always a favorite of busy homemakers. An elegant vegetable dish is a marvelous way to use up leftovers.

This Broccoli Supreme is simple enough to prepare for a quick Saturday night supper . . . special enough for a dinner party. The broccoli spears featured in this vegetable dish can be found in your grocer's frozen food case. They are frozen in a golden butter sauce.

There is no offensive cooking odor when you prepare your broccoli spears because they are frozen in a flavor-tight cooking pouch. Simply drop the frozen pouch into boiling water and cook the required number of minutes.

You'll love the ease of preparation in this recipe. Arrange the broccoli spears in the bottom of your casserole dish, top with a chicken-enriched white sauce and cheese. Then pop it under the broiler until lightly browned.

BROCCOLI SUPREME

Two 10 oz. pkgs. tender broccoli spears frozen in butter sauce in cooking pouches
2 tablespoons all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese
2 cups diced cooked chicken
3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Drop frozen pouches of broccoli spears frozen in butter sauce into boiling water to cover. Bring to a second boil. Cook 16 minutes, turning several times to ensure complete cooking. Do not cover pan. Remove pouches by grasping top flap. Open; drain butter sauce into small saucepan. Arrange cooked broccoli in greased 8-inch square casserole.

Stir flour, salt and pepper into butter sauce. Gradually stir in milk. Cook over low heat stirring frequently until thickened and smooth, about 10 minutes. Add shredded cheese and chicken. Heat until cheese is melted.

Pour hot sauce over broccoli; sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Place under broiler several minutes or until sauce is lightly browned. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

LEMON-LIME SPARKLE

Freeze 1 pint bottle (2 cups) sugar-free lemon-lime carbonated beverage in ice cube tray. Combine 1 quart cold water, 1 pint chilled sugar free lemon-lime carbonated beverage, 1 tablespoon liquid Sweet-10 and 1 package lemon-lime flavored beverage powder. Serve with frozen carbonated beverage ice cubes.

Note: Other flavors of beverage powder may be substituted.

Slit tiny cocktail sausages and fill with cheese; fill pitted ripe olives with cheese and set in tiny pastry shells; cut plum tomatoes open into tiny flowers, fill with cheese; decoratively fill tiny puff paste shells with cheese; use cheese stuffed hearts of celery; use assorted crackers topped with cheese or cheese and pieces of salami, ham, etc.

Ever Try Cantaloupe Club Salad?

Probably everyone has made club salad, but have you ever tried serving it in cantaloupe? It's a wonderful taste combination that we know will bring raves from everyone. California midsummer cantaloupes not only taste good and add color to menus, they make wonderful "holders" for other foods. In 'Cantaloupe Club Salad" we've used thick rings of the melon rather than half-shells. The club salad mixture is easy to prepare, and because it's made ahead of time, it's a good salad to serve when you're serving guests. Serve with hot biscuits or crisp bread sticks for a luncheon party.

California midsummer cantaloupe are easy to recognize by their high netting, warm beige color and clean stem end. Some of them are stamped "Cali-lope" for easy identification.

Cantaloupe Club Salad

2 cups uncooked salad macaroni or 1 quart cooked
6 to 8 slices bacon
1 cup dairy sour cream
½ package (.56 oz.) onion dip mix
1 tablespoon vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
Dash chili powder
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 California cantaloupe
Salad greens

Cook macaroni as package directs. Dice and cook bacon until crisp; drain on paper towels. Blend sour cream, onion mix, vinegar, salt and chili powder. Stir in macaroni, bacon, pimiento and green pepper. Cut cantaloupe crosswise into halves; remove seeds and rind. Cut 3 rings from each half; dice ends and add to macaroni mixture. For each serving, arrange one ring on salad greens and top with macaroni mixture.

Makes 6 servings.

For Glamour Use Pineapple

Ever since the 18th century, pineapple has been proclaimed "king of fruits" by gourmets 'round the world The refreshing flavor of pineapple stars in many foreign foods as well as best loved American favorites.

Entrees, especially, are highlighted by the crispy fresh taste of this golden canned fruit. It blends beautifully with almost all kinds of meats—from chicken to fish to pork. Whether in casseroles, sauces or as a condiment, pineapple plays an integral part where exciting flavor is concerned.

Try sauteed pineapple dashed with catsup for a glamorous ham garnish. Or, pan broil the fruit with a sprinkling of brown sugar to go with pork as carrots or beets. Crushed pineapple blended with sour cream is an easy meat sauce out of this world.

Versatile canned pineapple always does the job when a magnificent dinner party is coming up. These three entrees demonstrate its convenience and companionability with three distinctive types of meat and cooking methods.

Chicken Breasts Royale combines meaty chicken on a bed of Canadian bacon and a topping of shiny golde pineapple. Mellow sherry and sesame seeds add to its elegant flavor.

CHICKEN BREASTS ROYALE

1-3 cup butter or margarine
1 clove garlic
8 slices Canadian bacon
1 (1-pound 15-ounce) can pineapple slices
2-3 cup sherry or chicken stock
3 tablespoons sesame seeds

Cut chicken breasts in half lengthwise and remove bones. Season chicken with salt and pepper. Combine butter and cut clove garlic. Heat until bubbly. Add chicken and brown gently on both sides. Add to pan drippings. Heat and pour over chicken. Sprinkle with sesame seeds. Cover tightly. Bake in moderate over (350 degrees Fahrenheit) 30 minutes. Baste occasionally. Uncover and add pineapple. Continue baking, basting occasionally, 15 to 20 miutes longer until chicken is tender and pineapple glazed. Arrange chicken, bacon and pineapple on heated platter. Top with pan sauce. Makes eight servings.

Crispy tidbits of pineapple act as both a savory condiment and beautiful top garnish on this curried lamb. A snowy rice ring is an attractive serving idea, filled with the lamb, then pineapple topped. The meat sauce may be made and chilled ahead of time and reheated to simmering as guests arrive.

Cover casserole, and bake in moderately hot oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) about 40 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Peachy Drink For Summer

There's no trouble attached to making "Peachy Summer Drink." But be sure to allow plenty of time for thorougn chilling of the pureed canned cling peacehs, peach syrup, pineapple juice, lemon juice and sugar. Then at serving-time, stir in chilled ginger ale to lend additional sparkle to this warm - weather treat. Golden canned cling peaches give zestful flavor and sunny color to many summer beverages, desserts and salads.

Peachy Summer Drink

1 can (1 lb.) cling peach slices
1 cup pineapple juice
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup sugar
1 pint chilled ginger ale

Drain peaches, saving ¼ cup syrup. Combine peaches and syrup in electric blender and whir until smooth. Or force peaches through coarse sieve and combine with syrup. Three Simple Ingredients For a Summer Party

A hostess who wants to give the best party of the summer season can do it with three simple ingredients — an outdoor setting, an imaginative menu, and time enough to enjoy them both. Right at the top of the list of possibilities is the barbecue, where guests help with the cooking and the serving.

Barbecues have been a world of discovery for men. Not only do men like the zesty foods that come from the grill, but an amazing number of husbands and bachelors have found that they have real talent for outdoor cookery.

First comes the fire. Almost everyone agrees that the fuel should be charcoal, but after that the differences of opinion appear. Some use gadgets to ignite the charcoal, some build small bonfires to get it going, others resort to chemical means All methods work after a while, but it usually takes from 30 to 45 minutes to reach the cooking point.

This is the time to whet the appetite. The hour, place and menu call for a moderate, refreshing wine punch —not a sweet one — but one to quench the thirst. A pitcher punch, made hours in advance, has many advantages: it takes no last-minute ice crushing, withstands the heat of the fire and the weather, and tastes wonderfully refreshing. This one, made of California Sherry, is great for a pre-dinner drink, and it's mild enough to serve right on through the meal, if desired.

PACK-A-ITCHER PUNCH
(8 to 10 servings)

Cracked or crushed ice
Fruit garnish (cherries, apricot and peach halves, melon strips or cubes, fresh strawberries, pineapple slices, lemon and orange slices)
2 cups fruit juice (pineapple, pineapple-grapefruit, orange or any desired combination)
⅓ cup lemon juice
1 (4-5-qt.) bottle California Sherry

Pack a large pitcher (2½ to 3 quart size) ½ to 2-3 full of cracked or crushed ice. Arrange fruits of your choice in a decorative pattern in ice. Pour in fruit juices. Set pitcher in freezer for ½ hour or longer until fruit juice and ice are frozen. When ready to serve, bring pitcher and glasses to serving area. Pour in Sherry. Stir to blend as ice melts. Garnish each serving with sprigs of fresh mint, if desired.

When it's time to broil the meat, assemble all the go-alongs, because meat cooks quickly over charcoal. A showy hamburger, giant size, is easy to cook and to serve.

BARBECUE BEEFBURGER LOAF
(Serves about 6 to 8)

1½ pounds ground lean beef
½ cup California Sauterne or Rose
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup soft stale bread crumbs
1 long or round loaf French bread
Butter or margarine
Sliced tomoatoes
Sliced avocados
Seasoned salt

Mix beef, wine, onion, salt and bread crumbs lightly but thoroughly. Pat to about ½ inch larger than loaf of bread. Grill meat to desired degree of doneness. Meanwhile, split loaf of bread in half horizontally. Toast over grill. Spread cut sides of bread with butter and place bottom half of loaf on hot serving platter. Top with grilled meat; arrange thin tomato and avoacdo slices over top; sprinkle with seasoned salt. Cover with top of loaf. Cut in diagonal slices to serve.

A dry red dinner wine such as California Burgundy or Claret or a mellow red wine of the vino rosso type would be especially complimentary to any hamburger sandwich. If you plan to have both a red dinner wine and punch available, it is a good idea to chill the wine slightly. Though red wines are traditionally served at room temperature, they are likely to be more enjoyable on a warm day if they are on the cool side. For large parties, buy the wine in half-gallon or gallon jugs. A half gallon holds 64 ounces and serves about 16 drinks, four ounces each.

Most everyone appreciates a green salad with hamburgers. Select several kinds of salad greens (most are at their best right at this season), wash and chill them well, and tear into bite size pieces. Dressing may be a simple oil and wine vinegar mixture, or something more elaborate, perhaps flavored with blue cheese. Or, a big bowl of cole slaw might replace the tossed salad.

For dessert, it is hard to improve on fresh fruit, especially chilled melon. There is quite a variety of melons in the markets these days — among them, everybody's favorites, watermelons and cantaloupes.

When the party is over, remember to make sure that the fire is completely out. Charcoal burns a long time, so it's a good idea to soak any leftover coals thoroughly with water.

Timesaving Cooking Tips

Time saved on meal preparation is never more appreciated than on a warm summer evening. How very pleasant it is to spend the late afternoon cool and relaxed and still be able to serve a tempting meal suited to the season.

Desserts, for example, can be quick and still win praises. One that lives up to these requirements is Chocolate Clusters. These unbaked cereal cookies combine corn flakes and oven-toasted rice cereal with a peanut butter-flavored chocolate coating. Keep them in a cool place until you are ready to serve. The clusters make for a delightful accompaniment to ice cream.

A slightly more formal dessert, but equally well adapted to warm weather demands, is Heavenly Creme. This pudding, to be made ahead and frozen in a refrigerator tray, has a cust of packaged corn flake crumbs with butter and sugar. The filling is a fluffy cream cheese mixture. If you prefer, try the chocolate variation.

Quick Supper Dish is an appropriate entree for a summer night. The sauce is a top-of-the-range medley of ground beef, tomatoes and peas. Serve this savory combination over hot, buttered oven-toasted rice cereal.

CHOCOLATE CLUSTERS

1½ cups corn flakes
1 cup (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
½ cup peanut butter
1½ cups oven-toasted rice cereal

Crush corn flakes slightly. Melt chocolate with peanut butter in heavy medium-size saucepan over low heat, stirring constantly to prevent scorching. Remove from heat when mixture is well-blended. Add corn flakes and rice cereal stirring until well-coated with choclate mixture. Drop by teasponfuls onto waxed paper or buttered baking sheets. Set in cool place to harden.

Yield: about 3½ dozen clusters, 1½ inches in diameter.

HEAVENLY CREME

4 cups corn flakes or
1 cup packaged corn flake crumbs
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
½ cup sugar
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ cup soft butter or margarine
2 eggs
½ teaspoon vanilla flavoring
½ cup heavy cream

If using corn flakes, crush into fine crumbs. Combine corn flake crumbs, sugar and butter; reserve ¼ cup crumb mixture for topping. Press remaining crumb mixture firmly into bottom of refrigerator tray, 10¾ x 4¼ inches. Blend cream cheese and sugar; add eggs and vanilla, beat well. Whip cream until stiff; fold into cream cheese mixture. Spread evenly in crumb-lined tray; top with reserved crumb mixture. Place in freezer until firm. Cut into bars or pie-shaped pieces to serve.

Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Chocolate Variation: Melt 1 cup semi-sweet chocolate pieces over hot water; cool slightly and combine with cream cheese mixture just before folding in whipped cream. If desired, imitation rum flavoring may be substituted for vanilla.

QUICK SUPPER DISH

2 tablespoons shortening
1 pound ground beef
½ cup chopped onions
1 cup cut celery
3 tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 cups cooked tomatoes
1 cup cooked peas
4 cups oven-toasted rice cereal
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

Heat shortening in large heavy fry pan; add meat and brown lightly, stirring occasionally. Add onions and celery; continue cooking until vegetables are lightly browned. Stir in flour and seasonings. Drain tomatoes and peas, saving liquid. Add water, if necessary, to measure 1½ cups. Add vegetable liquid to meat, stirring constantly. Stir in tomatoes and peas; simmer about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Combine rice cereal and butter; heat in oven. Serve meat mixture over rice cereal or inside ring of rice cereal.

Yield: 6 servings, about 1 cup each.

Pack Picnic For Pleasure

Any fine weekend—especially Labor Day, that final summer splurge—is all the excuse you need for a picnic. Picnics are fun when the food is good; make them better by preparing ahead!

Ham and beef muffins, tanged with beer or ale, are a neat meat trick as you can bake, chill and wrap them in clear plastic until you're ready to repack them in the tins for easy transport to the picnic site. A flavorful macaroni salad is always good, and zesty beer or ale mixed with the dressing adds a gourmet touch.

Picnic Meat Muffins

2 eggs
¾ cup beer or ale
2½ cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup pickle relish
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1½ teaspoons dry mustard
¼ cup finely chopped onion
1 pound ground chuck
1 pound ground uncooked (cook-before-eating) ham

Beat eggs slightly in mixing bowl. Stir in beer. Add bread crumbs, pickle relish, seasonings and onion. Stir in meat and mix thoroughly. Pack into 3-inch muffin pan cups and bake in moderate oven (350°F.) 45 minutes. Serve hot or chill loaves in muffin pans, then wrap individually for picnics.

YIELD: 18 3-inch meat muffins.

Note: Meat muffins may be baked in aluminum foil cups which go right to the picnic. Fit squares of double-thickness aluminum foil into muffin cups. Cut squares large enough to cover meat. Fold foil back so it is flat on muffin pan during baking. Chill loaves, then cover with foil.

Picnic Macaroni Salad

1 package (8 ounces) elbow macaroni
1 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
¼ cup beer or ale
½ teaspoon Tabasco
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons minced onion
¾ cup diced celery
½ cup sliced radishes
½ cup diced green pepper

Cook macaroni according to directions on package; drain and cool. Combine mayonnaise, beer, Tabasco, salt and minced onion. Add to macaroni. Stir in celery, radishes and green pepper. Chill well. YIELD: 6 servings.

Ham Slices Are Graham Stuffed

Perk up summer appetities with healthy outdoor activities. One that's perfect for mourishment and taste appeal is "Graham Stuffed Ham Slices." Healthy graham cracker crumbs are combined with currants, orange juice, ginger and onion to make a delicious stuffing for wholesome ham slices. Serve with fresh vegetables, such as green beans. Here's the easy recipe:

Graham Stuffed Ham Slices

1½ cups Sunshine Graham cracker crumbs, 13¾-oz. bag
1 teaspoon ground ginger
1 tablespoon instant onion flakes
½ cup dried currants or raisins
1½ cups orange juice
2 center cut ham slices, each about ½-inch thick

Blend cracker crumbs with ginger, onion flakes, currants or raisins and 1 cup orange juice. Make slashes in fat around ham slices, about 1 inch apart. Place 1 slice in shallow baking pan; cover with most of crumb mixture, saving about ¼ cup. Top with second slice. Pour remaining ½ cup orange juice over top. Bake uncovered in slow oven (325 degrees F) about 40 minutes, basting occasionally with pan juices. Spread top slice with remaining crumb mixture, baste with pan juices and bake about 20 minutes longer. Remove to heated platter. Yield: 4 large servings.

Shish Kebab Is a Meal In Itself

This shish kebab is a balanced meal in itself with meat and vegetables neatly skewered. Serve it as a back yard treat now while lamb is still plentiful. A plate of hot rolls and ice cream for dessert will satisfy most appetites; for the hungry teen-ager, a side order of hearty beans or corn pudding may be in order.

SHISH KEBAB

2 to 3 pounds of lean lamb cut in 1-inch cubes
2 teaspoons of Beau Monde Seasoning
3 tablespoons of garlic flavored red wine vinegar
1 teaspoon of honey
¼ cup of salad oil
1 teaspoon of Bouquet Garni for Lamb, crushed
Vegetables such as green pepper squares, firm ripe tomatoes or small whole onions

Trim excess fat from lamb. Combine seasonings and pour over lamb cubes. Marinate at least four hours, preferably overnight. Pour boiling water over green pepper squares and onions; let stand 5 minutes. Alternate cubes of lamb with vegetable on skewers. Broil 20 to 30 minutes. Brush frequently with marinade and turn skewers several times. Makes five servings.

To keep your avocado dip from darkening after it is mixed, spread a thin layer of mayonnaise over the top. Just before serving, mix the mayonnaise in with the dip. And, of course, as far ahead of time as possible season the mashed avocado with chili pequins, vinegar, instant toasted onions, chili con carne seasoning and Beau Monde seasoning.

A Creamy Nectarine Salad Treat

A molded refresher to lure summer appetites, "Creamy Nectarine Salad" casts the spotlight on those beauties from California orchards — luscious fresh nectarines. Besides being the sweet and juicy fruit they are, nectarines are time-savers in recipes because it isn't necessary to peel their fuzzless skins. However, if you want to peel them for certain uses, cover the nectarines with boiling water for about a minute, then strip off the skins easily.

CREAMY NECTARINE SALAD

1 envelope plain gelatin
1-3 cup sugar
Dash salt
1 cup boiling water
1 package (3 oz.) cream cheese, softened
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
½ cup lemon juice
3 to 4 fresh nectarines
½ cup chopped celery

Combine gelatin, sugar and salt. Add boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add cream cheese, mayonnaise, lemon rind and juice; beat until smooth. Chill until thick. Slice nectarines to make 2 cups. Fold into gelatin mixture along with celery; turn into 4-cup mold and chill until firm.

Makes 6 servings.

Teen-Age Cooking

by Lillian Jermane

Since we have given you so many meat recipes suggesting the use of rice or noodles with them we did not want to forget the potato.

In fact, we had a Delmonico potato recipe to go with one of the meat dishes and we did not have room for it, so we have decided to do an entire column on the potato. Especially since we found out so many interesting facts about the potato from Louis P. DeGouy's "The Gold Cook Book." His book gives the history and background of so many of the things we eat, it seems to be a history book as well as a cookbook.

The first potato was discovered in the Andés in Peru in 1538 by Pedro de Ciqza de Leon. Instead of being cooked by heat it was cured by frost and then fried. It is still the staple food of those Indians who live above the zone where corn can be grown. Quantities were stored for the Indians' army, for tribute to the Great Inca, and against famine. A potato culture developed.

About 1560 the potato was carried to Europe. But like all new foods, it was slow to overcome the prejudices of the people. Scientists improved it. Marie Antoinette wore its blossoms in her hair. Scotch divines thundered against it because it was not mentioned in the Bible. Frederick the Great planted potatoes in the Lustergarten, and his grandson threatened to cut off the noses of all who would not plant them.

There was even a Potato war in Germany.

Through all this fanfare, the potato gradually came into its birthright because poor people of Northern Europe found that if there wasn't much else to eat, potatoes would keep body and soul together. And nowhere was poverty so bitter and the potato so welcome as in Ireland. The Irish lavished pet names upon the lowly tuber. Priests and altar boys marched up and down their fields drenching the crop with holy water. They little dreamed that failure of the crop would one day decimate the country.

The Rev. Chauncey E. Goodrich of Utica, New York, imported from the Andes the seeds of several varieties of potato. From this fresh stock after a few cross-pollinations, he produced a variety in 1853 that he called the garnet chili from which was later derived the early rose, a variety still widely grown today.

The potato didn't sweep to victory unimpeded. Along the eastern slopes of the Rocky mountains grows a wild relative of the potato, the buffalo bur. Upon this a certain beetle innocently nibbled. As the potato crept westward during the Civil War, the range of the cultivated potato and this wild one overlapped and the insect turned to the lusher plant, soon becoming a number one pest. Spreading eastward, it reached the Atlantic coast by 1874.

All Europe quickly set quarantines against American potatoes, and the beetle didn't reach Europe until the First World War, when it was accidentally introduced near Bordeaux, France; it is now actively fought by the French.

An earlier potato blight greatly influenced the course of history. Until 1844 Ireland had fairly good crops. She needed them, for the potato was the chief food of her people. A crop failure came in 1846, diminishing the supply and infecting the seed. Nearly a million Irish died of starvation. The young and progressive fled to America; more than a million and a half coming to New York within the next few years.

As the blight spread to Germany and Poland, fresh waves of potato pilgrims fled here. Thus the potato forever links the Incas with the sturdy immigrants who developed America.

Enjoyable Food Tour in Hillsdale Farmers Market

Spent a very interesting and enjoyable three hours at the Hillsdale Farmers Market in the company of Mr. J. Wm. Olgardt, new public relations man here, whose enthusiasm for the market's future development got me into such a "swing" that I sampled as much food as my appetite would allow (but there will be another day. Mr. Olgardt first introduced me to Jay Hurlburt, who is in charge of complete restaurant operations. Our tour began with the Whistling Oyster, a seafood, chowder and cool salad paradise . . . Chef Victor's Rotisserie is cause for a stop no matter what time of the day. Victor has won international praise and awards for his food presentations . . . The Tiny Shadows offers unusual dishes from the European continent which are unusually tasty . . . Pizza treats, plus Italian dishes galore, await your visit to the San Remo Italian kitchen . . . If you favor the subtle flavors of the Orient, the Red Dragon is the place to go . . . Western-style barbecue is an art, and a pretty picture is "painted" at the Old Hickory Bar B-Q—chicken, beef, and pork, plus all the trimmings . . . Adolph's Dessert Bar and Pastry Shop doubled my calorie count for the day . . . Do you call yourself a connoisseur? Then your "cup of tea" is The Beefeater. Thick steaks and juicy prime ribs are a specialty here. . . . Castillo's sparkling, stainless steel Mexican Kitchen is reason to vocal "Granada"—the food is that delightful . . . Sundaes, shakes, sodas, and ice cream make Doug's Fountain a favorite with both young and old . . . All-American sandwiches, hot dogs and hamburgers, plus many other items, blend to perfection under the Big Top . . . Hunts quality doughnuts are take-home specials. In fact, eat one while strolling around (I did) . . . German food as prepared by the Little Shadows will have you going back for seconds . . . No place would be complete without Continental cuisine, and the Napoleon restaurant serves just that. If you've followed my tour through the Hillsdale Farmers Market this far, then you know why it will take countless trips to complete my food sampling.

Jay Hurlburt

SINALOA'S LUZ GARCIA has kept the wires, mail, and telephones to Mexico busy, these past few days. Seems she found out that "Anita," one of Latin-America's most famed dancers and vocalists, was vacationing in Mexico City. The results were rewarding: "Anita" announced that she has accepted a Sinaloa contract and will debut here soon. Ole! . . . Lew Lehr, the Marina steak man, went to the beach to eye the bikinis. He decided that the only way to vaccinate a girl nowadays so it wouldn't show is to have her inhale it . . . Francis & Blair, comics at Finocchio's, San Francisco, get fan mail from as far away as Australia and Japan, as well as Egypt. They recently got a letter from behind the Iron Curtain—Poland. Out of the countless thousands of tourists who see Finocchio's shows, a surprisingly large number of them write fan letters to various artists appearing there . . . Pancho's Mexican Cafe, the award-winning little restaurant in Redwood City, is in one of the most convenient locations on the Peninsula. It's right at Five Points, with plenty of off-street parking right in front.

Luz Garcia

FRANK TORRES, the Montara Beach innkeeper, excels in Peruvian dishes—and one of his extra specials is Papas Rellenas. For a dinner starter, try Escabeche (pickled fish)—you'll enjoy . . . To date, Sonny Liston is the only heavyweight champ (during Sil Oliva's time) who hasn't visited Sil's Exposition Fish Grotto. With pictures to prove it, he can call all the former ring greats by their first names . . . The "Lady In Red," wearing a smile as bright as her gown, is Mary Ann Hay as she tends to her duties at Nick Gust's, Pacifica restaurant showplace. Try sunset window-side dining here some early eve. Romance will bloom anew, no matter what anniversary you're celebrating . . . Can't help it if I'm a dessert nut. Haven't missed a once-a-month Sunday dinner at the New Trivoli in the past 10 years. One reason being they serve special prepared petit fours not available elsewhere (on week ends only) . . . Steak and eggs is one of Bruno Scatena's favorite breakfasts—whenever in town you'll find him the first Joe's of Westlake customer on a Sunday morn. Me, too.

Frank Torres

DOUG HART rates the nod of the week: For a gent with many seeming restaurant problems, he still keeps his Mori's Point Inn flag flying and the "Open For Business" sign well neoned. Hart, who is full of heart, is always ready to spin a yarn — which adds color and intrigue to his historic coastside restaurant . . . Milt Tonini, the lovable "Popeye the Sailor Man" at the Princeton Inn, finally admitted he received a Yo-Yo at his pre-Christmas party, a couple of weeks ago. After secretly practicing the art of spining it in the barn, Milt is thinking of starting a contest among the neighboring tavern owners . . . Both exterior and interior improvements at Enrico Romano's smart Italian restaurant are complete. This cozy place is as compact as a jewel box, and sparkles as brightly with a stainless steel kitchen and special pizza ovens. A new menu should be preemed here by the time you read this . . . An outstanding vacation sight: The flower-garden swimming pool which the Benjamin Franklin Hotel affords it's many guests. For those who prefer just sunning, the deck is most relaxing. Refreshing cocktails available in the beautiful Seville Room a "backstroke" from the pool.

Doug Hart

RONNIE GAYLORD and BURT HOLIDAY will take over the entertainment spotlight at the Oakland Holiday Inn following Frank Gorshin's record-breaking engagement which concludes Sunday. New show bows in Tuesday night, August 20 . . . Redwood City's Tin Pan Alley presents Lynn Shriner, vocal Miss with musical talent to spare . . . Last two weeks to stop by the Woodside Pioneer Hotel for a chat with Owner Bodee Cominoli, who bows out to the new owners on August 31 . . . A Las Vegas scene in our own backyard is "yours for the trip" to the Burlingame Hyatt House Hotel. From poolside to tableside, the atmosphere is exciting . . . Club Shor-Vu now serves luncheons from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.; dinners from 5 p.m. . . . For a new experience in Italian food fare, Valdoro's is one of San Mateo's newest restaurants . . . Besides serving the best in sea food dishes, Vince's Italian and Sea Food restaurant has a take-out sea food depot for the home table . . . There are many high spots at the Mountain View Caravan Inn besides entertainment: Delicious food served in the Persian Room and the Camel Room, being one. Executive chef James Dixon was formerly in charge of the Holiday House in Atlanta, Ga., and brought with him many of his special Southern menu treats. Entertainment tip: General Manager Betty Sedam has plans to present a new face and figure to the Peninsula. If this happens, the "stag" line will form to the right.

Ronnie Gaylord

Elevated dining is afforded at the Sky Deck, located above the Royal Lodge motel on the North Bayshore highway. The new menu, which has been in effect since August 12 and includes something for every member of the family—from a kiddies' menu to a low-calorie, high-protein special, is attracting much new business. The Sky Deck is a spick and span drop-in for those who know what they want and have a limited time to be served. Eggs (any style) with side dishes of bacon, ham and griddle cakes, plus a wide variety of fruits and juices. Breakfast combinations are $1.09. A la carte selections, of course. Beverages from soda pop to Saka coffee are available. Carmel Sands is the new owner of this restaurant in the sky and has made numerous changes in the decor and operation. House specialty: Steak Sandwich . . . The special salads and flaming desserts served at Walter's are prepared at your table by Walter himself. Cocktails and dinner served daily from 5 p.m., except Mondays; luncheon, Tuesday through Saturday.

Villa Square Restaurant Combination a Winner

Emerson Murfee's Villa Square on El Camino Real has been the site and fun-place to dine, relax and enjoy the beverages of your choice, for many years. This Peninsula "oasis" offers variation in cuisine. Guests can select according to food preference from the exotic foods of the Indies, Orient, and Hawaii at the Lanai, where island drinks, as well as state-side refreshers, are also served . . . A few steps from the Lanai's handcarved teakwood front door you'll find the Villa Chartier, where the Peninsula's smart set has dined in elegant fashion since 1925. The traditional decor and old English atmosphere here is something to behold; ditto, the selective menu and wine list. The slogan "Meet you at the Villa Chartier" is a luncheon and dinner "password." As for banquets, Maitre d' Walter Suchorski and Emerson Murfee chef Fred Eberhardt take pride and delight in preparing special menus for any occasion. Entertainment is provided by George Nyklicek and Emil Miller at the organ, and Arpad D'Zurko and his Stradivarius violin. The Villa Chartier is open daily from 12 noon; the Lanai from 5 p.m.

Keith Williamson's chances of franchising his tasty fried chicken are "hotter than the weather." If your Bright Lighter doesn't watch out, Keith will have me talked into one. But somehow I can't see my right-hand man, Tex, in a high, white chef's hat.

Ted Newburg is the new chief at House of Fine Foods . . . The parking lot in front of the South San Francisco Holiday Inn had 16 out-of-state auto licenses (I counted 'em) the other day. Which shows that out-of-towners stay on the outskirts of the big City as well as in it . . . Chris Michaels and Jimmy Ware, entertaining duo at the South San Francisco Il Manzo Steak House, is a mighty talented one.

IT'S ALWAYS BEEN A PENINSULA TRADITION

Bayshore's Police Force in 1939

POLICE DEPARTMENT — Members of Bayshore City's first and only police department line up for this photo taken in 1939. The bleachers in the background were for spectators attending the dog races, which flourished from 1932 until they were outlawed by the state in 1938. Bayshore City, after becoming a part of Daly City tomorrow, will be patrolled by members of the Daly City police department. The department has added five new members for the new beat.

Street Scene in Bayshore City . . .

. . . And an Industrial Scene

WAREHOUSE — One of the biggest commercial buildings in Bayshore is a warehouse owned by S & W Fine Foods incorporated. This view shows trucks backed up to the warehouse loading platform. The building and most of the other big businesses that will become a part of Daly City are located north of Geneva avenue, just south of the San Francisco city line. (Post-Times photo)

New Geranium Plant of Week

A new red geranium named "Nittany Lion Red," is The Plant of the Week. Its breeders received a rarely awarded Certificate for Horticultural Achievement from All-America Selections, and the new geranium was given a "Special Purpose Recommendation."

Its "special purpose" is for planting in massed beds. In this Nittany Lion excels, because over most of the country, geranium plants cost too much to afford them so extravagantly. In California where geraniums (and geranium diseases) are plentiful, a new start with clean, healthy Nittany Lion Red seed is well worth the time.

This new red geranium blooms in 100 - 110 days from seeds. Through a new process, Ferry-Morse offers seeds that germinate in five to 14 days and that boast a germination percentage of 75 per cent or better. Geranium seed was formerly sold with the natural husk still on it. Such seeds required up to six weeks to germinate and less than half the number planted would finally sprout. "Scarified" geranium seeds, with the husks rubbed off, are as easy to sprout and grow as marigolds and zinnias. Plants of the Nittany Lion Red begin flowering at eight to 15 inches in height. With age, plants get somewhat taller. Prime blooms come in midsummer and continue until frost time. Most florets are single and showy, however, some are semi-double.

The new geranium gets its name from the fact that it was orginated on the campus of Pennsylvania State university. This university gives the name of Nittany Lion to everything it produces from football teams to flower seed. Penn State has encouraged the development of new flower and vegetable varieties by planting extensive gardens of experimental plants from all over the world. A.A.S. judges rely on the Penn State trial results to help choose varieties for its top awards.

Recently, some remarkable work has been done at Penn State in geraniums from seeds. Under the direction of Darrell E. Walker, head, Department of Horticulture, a young instructor, Richard Craig, has been shaking the geranium family tree.

"Dick Craig grew up in his father's greenhouse and at an early age decided to specialize in geraniums. He was particularly concerned about the heavy losses suffered from stem rot and bacterial leaf spot diseases transmitted through propagation by cuttings. He decided to explore what could be done with growing geraniums from seeds. Seeds do not transmit rot and spot diseases. This young man enlisted the aid of colleagues in the mathematics department and worked out a system of predicting breeding results by the use of electronic computers. With these short cuts he compressed several years of "trial and error" into the short time before he could apply for his doctorate.

Slowdown on New Building Is Requested

A $1,990,000 program of major drainage improvements and a slowdown on new building were asked of Pacifica city councilmen in a report submitted to the council last week by members of a citizens drainage study committee. The council at its next meeting will set a date for a study meeting on the report.

The committee is asking for a nearly $2 million general obligation bond to finance major drainage projects in watershed areas—principally along Pedro, Milagra and Calera creeks—and for lesser projects in improved areas where present drainage facilities are inadequate.

According to the committee's recommendation, $1,690,000 would be spent on immediately-needed projects and $300,000 kept in a reserve fund for periodic work on existing or obsolete drainage facilities.

The committee report urges that "short of stopping construction, the city should enact measures to inhibit the rate of construction until such time as its effect on city - wide mainstream problems is solved."

Concern was expressed by the committee with "the problem of continued large scale development in up-stream areas tributary to presently deficient major drainage facilities."

Pacifica councilmen were asked to undertake the recommended program of major drainage improvement immediately, or declare a moratorium on future development.

A general city-wide bond issue, rather than piecemeal assessment district proceedings, is recommended by the committee as the most practical method of financing the construction of major drainage improvements.

Committee members suggest the bonds be sold over a five year or longer period to keep pace with Pacifica construction.

The committee report recommends that underground culverts be constructed on the big inch channel at Edgemar and Milagra creek in Pacific Manor and a pumping station be built at Brighton and Lakeside in Sharp Park.

Members of the citizens drainage study committee are: Royce Ackerman, Sohrab Alikhan, Mrs. Ellen Boyden, William Croman, F. Earl Kabel and Daniel G. Martin, chairman.

UC Develops A Harvester For Lettuce

A machine that "feels" the size and firmness of lettuce growing in the field, and automatically picks heads ready for market, is being developed by U. C. agricultural engineers. An experimental model of the mechanical harvester made its debut in a lettuce field near Salinas recently. It successfully selected mature, firm heads and cut them from the row.

The U. C. lettuce harvester, which combines mechanical and electronic methods, has been built for only one row at a time so far. But a commercial model could cover at least four rows, moving at about one mile per hour. The experimental machine can harvest an acre in five hours, selecting the mature crop and leaving the rest.

The harvester, developed by Roger Garret, Mike B Zahara and Richard Griffen of U. C., has three basic parts: 1—A sensing unit with a short, six-inch-wide belt moving across rollers which are geared to the machine's forward speed, somewhat like a featherweight crawler tractor track. First, the sensing unit rolls upward to the top of a head of lettuce. At that point it is magnetically locked so it can't move any higher. Then the unit's rear end moves forward across the head of lettuce, pressing downward. If it encounters enough resistance, the lettuce is ready to cut and an electronic switch is tripped.

2—A memory unit receives the signal from the sensing unit and, a second or so later, actuates the cutting knife, which is two feet to the rear. While the knife is moving forward to cut the first head, the sensing unit may pass judgment on two or three more heads, so the memory unit must store up information on as many as four heads simultaneously.

3—The cutting device, in a fraction of a second, reaches into the row, cuts a head of lettuce and carries it outward, without touching the lettuce on either side.

Jeff Board Gets Building Loan

Jefferson Union High school district was granted a $1,158,941 loan last week by the State Allocations board.

The bulk of the funds will be used for an addition to Terra Nova High school, according to Richard Coltrell administrative assistant for the district.

The loan was a part of $30,000,231 in loans for new construction projects in 40 school districts. The board also cut the interest rate on state construction loans to local school districts from 3.4 to 3.1 per cent.

Coltrell said the district had asked for a loan of approximately $75,000 for the project at Terra Nova school.

"I assume the Terra Nova project was included in the loan granted." Coltrell said, adding that they had not yet received official word of the approval.

The loan application was resubmitted July 30, Coltrell said, after a previous bid had been rejected as too high.

He said construction would begin within a week in order to complete the project by next September. The addition will include 15 new classrooms, a cafeteria, shops and enlarged gymnasium facilities.

The construction will have to be completed by the beginning of next school year, Coltrell said, or the district would not be able to "fit all the students in" Terra Nova school.

Construction will be done by Martinelli Construction company of San Francisco.

County Gets U. S. Lands

The last remaining public lands in San Mateo county were turned over to the county yesterday by the federal government.

Curt Hammett, an official of the Sacramento office of the bureau of land management, U. S. Department of the Interior, appeared before the board of supervisors in Redwood City to formally give title to the property to the county.

Some 200 acres in various parcels, all in the Butano park-Pescadero dam site area, were acquired by the county, which has been negotiating for the property for some time. The county is paying a token $2.50 an acre for the land.

Helen M. Weaver of 199 Bel Mar, Daly City, reported to police over the weekend that someone had siphoned gasoline from her auto, parked in a carport.

Residents Complain Of Boulder

The Pacifica Safety committee received a leter om complaint Monday night from residents of Terra Nova boulevard concerning a large boulder that recently rolled off a construction grading site and crashed into the side of a home.

The residents asked that safety measures be taken to prevent future incidents. Safety committee members referred the latter to the city engineer's office for further action.

In study of the traffic flow pattern in the new Doelger Fairmont development, safety committee members decided to recommend to Pacific City Council that Hickey boulevard and Gateway drive be considered arterials and all streets coming into them be posted with stop signs.

Praking should be eliminated on the northeastern corner of Manor drive and Manor Plaza and the northeast curb of Manor drive widened, committee members decided.

The present situation is too tight for safe maneuvering of traffic they decided.

Further study of traffic problems on steep and twisting Manor drive will be delayed until Hickey boulevard is built since safety committee members except that Hickey will considerably relieve traffic on Manor drive.

Volunteers To Plan CD Coast Drill

Pacifica's next civil defense drill will be completely planned and organized by volunteers, with only technical assistance from city employees, members of the city's civil defense and disaster council have decided.

A subcommittee was appointed to decide the type of drill needed and to set it up, probably for early in October.

Last spring, the city staged a highly successful drill with a mock explosion and fire causing a number of casualties who were "treated" at the city's emergency hospital unit, set up for the first time at Sharp Park school.

Another subcommittee was appointed to study a plan for a civil defense operational area that will co-ordinate the activities of 17 cities, San Mateo county and all special districts within the county.

Pacifica civil defense officials have been asked to review the plan and make a recommendation for acceptance or rejection to the city council.

Membership in the plan would assure Pacifica more immediate outside help in the event of a local disaster—such as last year's flood.

Outfall Line Is Ready for Plant Hookup

Engineer Richard Aberley told the North San Mateo county Sanitation district Mondayt hat its $350,000 sewage outfall line on Thornton Beach has been towed out into the ocean and set in place.

The engineer said the 2500-foot sewage line is ready to be hooked up to the line running from the district's treatment plant.

The outfall line is designed to prevent accumulation of debris on the surrounding beaches. The California Water Pollution board last year had issued a cease and desist order to the district.

The sanitation district received a $137,500 grant from the Department of Health, Welfare and Education to build the line.

Volunteers Needed for Fund Drive

Mary's Help Hospital Building Fund Drive Chairman Frank Curry said last night that the drive was in "a time of crisis."

Curry said that only 73 persons have volunteered to work on the drive for $1.5 million.

"A minimum of 468 workers are needed," he said.

The assurance of success depends solely upon the recruitment of the necessary man-power to do the public solicitation of funds, Curry said.

Judge George B. Harris, chairman of the board of governors for the new Mary's Help hospital, said the campaign for funds was "at the crossroads" of success or failure.

The drive committee meets at the Parish Hall of Our Lady of Mercy church, Elmwood drive, at 8 p.m. each Tuesday.
